The Irish Times,
AND DAILY ADVERTISER.

VOL. II. No. 446. SUBSCRIPTION { STAMPED..... £2 12 0 / UNSTAMPED ... 1 6 0 } DUBLIN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1860. PRICE ONE PENNY.

OFFICIAL LIBRARY OF THE CHIEF SECRETARY DUBLIN CASTLE

Public Notices.

THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN.

Mr. MAGNE has the honour to announce the Commencement of THE DRAMATIC SEASON, With the Engagement of Mr. WALTER MONTGOMERY, (For a Limited Period), On THIS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1860. The Performance will commence with Shakespeare's Tragedy of HAMLET,

Hamlet,	Mr. Walter Montgomery.
Ghost of Hamlet's Father,	Mr. Frank Rossiter.
Gertrude, Queen of Denmark,	Mrs. C. H. Hodgkinson.
Ophelia, daughter of Polonius,	Miss Wynne Reynham.

To conclude with the laughable Farce of THE ILLUSTIOUS STRANGER.

Benjamin Bowbell,	Mr. H. Rudge.
Farina,	Mrs. Holston.

Mr. HAWKES has the honour to announce the Engagement of the ZOUAVE ARTISTES, Original Founders of the Theatre Royal Isleman, during the Crimean War, where, under the enemy's fire, they gained such renown, and have since performed at Constantinople, Athens, PARIS, on the Theatre of the Tuileries, at all France, Belgium, Netherlands, Hanbburg, Hanover, Frankfort, Vienna, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Austria, Bohemia, Hungary, Italy, Savoy, Sardinia, Bavaria, Spain, Portugal, Gibraltar, and lately at the Princess' Theatre, London. The Zouaves will perform by kind in their plays. The battles in which the Zouave Artistes were engaged are Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann, Malakoff, and Sebastopol.

Stage Manager, Mr. Grace.—Musical Director, Mr. Levey.

Doors Open at a quarter to Seven, to Commence at a quarter past Seven.

Private Boxes, £1 5s., £2 10s., and £3; Dress Circle, 2s.; Second Circle, 2s.; Pit, 1s.; Lower Gallery, 6d.; Upper Gallery, 3d.

ELECTRO-BIOLOGY AND PHRENOLOGY IN THE ROTUNDO.

(Entrance from Rutland-street.)

INSTRUCTIVE AND AMUSING ENTERTAINMENT, PROFESSOR G. W. STONE,

Has the honour to inform the Nobility, Gentry, and Citizens generally of Dublin and Vicinity, that he will commence a Series of Wonderful and Amusing Experiments in Biology at the Exhibition Room, Rotunda, on MONDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 8TH, 1860, to be continued each night during the week. Previous to the Experiments each evening Phrenological Examinations will be made.

To commence at 8 o'clock precisely.

Admission, 1s.; Reserved seats, 2s.; Children half price.

Tickets may be had at the doors of Mr. Brown, No. 8, Upper Sackville-street.

N.B.—Phrenological Examinations, with written Charts. Character, how to obtained daily at Professor Stone's private sitting room, No. 8, Upper Sackville-street.

Hours from 12 noon until 5 p.m.

SPECIAL SERVICES,

ST. BRIDGET'S CHURCH,

THIS (FRIDAY) EVENING, OCTOBER 5TH, AT EIGHT o'clock.

Preacher:—The Rev. M. F. DAY, A.M.

IRISH CHURCH MISSIONS TO ROMAN CATHOLICS.

A Meeting for Prayer will be held (God willing) in the Mountjoy-street Schoolhouse, on Friday Evening, October 5, 1860, at Half-past Seven o'clock. You are invited to come. The invitation accepted. Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out."—John, vi. 37.

Just as I am—Thou will receive,
Will welcome, pardon, cleanse, relieve,
Because Thy promise I believe,
O Lamb of God, I come!

THE TUESDAY NOON PRAYER MEETING METROPOLITAN HALL.

The usual Meeting for United Prayer will (the Lord willing) be held on TUESDAY NEXT, at Twelve o'clock, and also in the Evening, at Eight o'clock—to which all classes are invited.

The Rev. J. DENHAM SMITH will preside.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

PRESIDENT:
EDWARD FETHERSTON, ESQ. ALEXANDER PARKER, WILLIAM BEWLEY, ESQRS.

THE MEETINGS of the ASSOCIATION for the study of the Holy Scriptures are held every Sunday afternoon, at Five o'clock; and every Tuesday Evening, at Eight o'clock, in the Reading Rooms, 102, Middle Abbey-street; and on Monday evening, at 7 in Rathmines School-house, at Eightoclock, to which all Young Men are effectionately invited. No introduction is required.

W. J. STOKES, Secretary.

Library and Office, 102, Middle Abbey-street.
4th October, 1860.

MOLYNEUX YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The first Meeting of the Session will be held (D.V.) on this (Friday) Evening, at 48, Molesworth-street, at 8 o'clock, and the opening address delivered by the President, the Rev. M. NELIGAN, A.M.

COUNTY OF DUBLIN ARCHERS' CLUB.

A Member of the above Club having placed at the disposal of the Committee the sum of £10, to be handed over in order to carry out the views of the donor, to hold a PRIZE MEETING on WEDNESDAY, the 10th OCT., inst., at Rockford House, Stradbrook, Blackrock, the Residence of M. C. Hutchinson, Esq. Prize amounting to £10, open to members of all Irish Archery Clubs, will be shot for. Competitors must enter their names, distant the Club they belong to, and forward to the Secretary on or before Monday, the 8th inst. Shooting will commence at 1 o'clock.

Admission to the Ground 1s.

Further information can be had, by letter only, addressed to the Honorary Secretary, Auburn Cottages, Monkstown.

If the weather should prove unfavourable, the meeting will be held on the following day.

(By order)
R. H. WALL, Honorary Secretary.

1st October, 1860.

FOREIGN VINEYARD ASSOCIATION (LIMITED), JOINT-STOCK WINE COMPANY.

Commanding Capital £500,000.

Formed for the supply of pure wine to clubs, public establishments, or private families, at wholesale prices.

Our Budget THIS, from March 8, 1860—

Sherries at 27s, 31s, 33s, 35s, 39s, 42s; late 5s per doz. each extra. Ports from wood, 30s, 33s, 36s, delivered two years in bottle as before. Very fine Epernay Champagne, now 42s, late 48s per doz.

The celebrated sparkling Royal Fleur de Sillery, now 54s, late 60s.

Moet's, Mumm's, Perrier Jouet's, or any other fortified first qualities, now 54s, late 60s. Prize of either in proportion.

Dinner Clarets: Yin Ordinaire, good drinking, 18s; St. Emillion, or Haut Brion, now 27s, late 32; 32s dito, St. Julien, now 31s, late 36s; and La Rose 36, now 39s, late 42s.

Fine La Rose of 1830 vintage, now 42s, late 48s.

First growth Clarets: the famed Chateau Brane Cantenac Margaux of 1851, now 44s; ditto of 1848, 52s, now 56s; ditto, Chateau Rausan Margaux, 1848, late 50s, now 56s; ditto, fine vintages of Lafour, 54s; Lafitte, 60s; and 1848 Margaux, 64s, worth 100s.

The Burgundies are selected by the manager at each place of growth, viz.:—Sparkling white, 42s, worth 72s, very fine; Vins de Pays, 24s, 30s, 36s; Volney 1848, 42s, 48s, 54s, 60s, fine growths, from 36s to 42s; first growths, Clos-Vougeot, Chambertin, St. Georges, and others, from 60s to 70s.

For detailed price lists, apply to T. W. SLAPLETON, Esq., Manager, 90, Regent-street, London.

THE undersigned desire to bring before the notice of the benevolent public the following very peculiar and distressing case:—A Gentleman highly educated, a Graduate of Dublin University, of blameless character, is at present in the most embarrassed circumstances owing to a public situation which he held having been done away with, and his being since unable to obtain any other permanent employment. He has a Wife and a family of nine children to maintain, out of his present precarious income, which amount only to a few shillings in the week; they are consequently often in want of the bare necessaries of life. We can vouch for his respectability, and that he lives by the Duty of his very humility, and we also convinced that if by an effort on the part of a few Christian friends, his present liabilities (amounting to about £100) could be paid up, and a few more pounds (say £50) given to set him about in a Commission Agency, in joining which he has an opportunity at present, if he could command the small necessary capital, he would be once more able to support himself and his family in comfort and independence!

G. S. SMYTH, D.D., Brookboro'. A. M. POLLOCK, A.M., Dublin.
C. S. STANFORD, D.D., Dublin. J. J. MAGORIAN, A.M., Dublin.
C. M. FISHER, D.D., Dublin. JOHN RATHBORNE, Esq., 26, Upper
H. VERSCHOYLE, A.M., Dublin. Baggot-street.

Contributions will be received by any of the above, or by the Treasurer, Rev. HENRY H. M'DERMOTT, 10 Killiare-street, Dublin.

The following contributions have been already received:—

Rev. Hugh M'Neile, D.D. Liverpool, £1; Rev. Hamilton Verschoyle, £1; A Lady, per John Rathborne, Esq., £1; Rev. C. B. Stevenson, Westcourt, Callan, and Rev. J. Alexander, Callan, £1; each, per Rev. H. Verschoyle, Lady Arabella Brooke, Colooke Brooke, Dr. Twemly, £1 each; Rev. John Gregory, 10s; per the Rev Dr. Stanford; Robert Rainsford, Esq., 10s; Miss Booker, per Rev. H. Verschoyle, 2s 6d; A Friend, per Thomas H. M'Dermott, £1; Charles Caulfield, per ditto, 10s.; Rev. R. G. Orme, per Rev. H. Verschoyle, £1; Miss White, per ditto, 10s.; — Gawne, Esq., per Miss Congreve, £1; — Milner, Esq., per ditto, £2 2s.; Miss Colgreve, per Rev. H. Verschoyle, 10s.; Gerard Gan, Esq., 2s. 6d. (per Mrs. Gan), Seafield House, Rray, £1, per T. H. M'Dermott; J. L., per ditto, 5s. 6d.; Dr. Hudson, £1; Mrs. Gen. Saunders, £1; A. J. B., postage stamps; and E. H., £1 (half-note), per T. H. M'Dermott; George Casey, Esq., £1, per T. H. M'Dermott.

DUBLIN BY LAMPLIGHT BALL'S BRIDGE.

OFFICE—99, UPPER BAGGOT-STREET, DUBLIN.

President—The Right Hon. the Earl of MAYO.

Patrons—His Grace the Lord Archbishop of Dublin, the Right Hon Joseph Napier, the Right Hon the Earl of Rodan, the right Hon Baron Greenock, the Hon C P Crampton, the Hon and Very Rev the Dean of St Patrick's, &c; the Ven the Archdeacon of Kildare.

Patroneesses—The Countess of Mayo, the Lady Charlotte Wolfe, the Lady Maria Fortescue, the Hon Mrs. Pakenham, Mrs Greene, &c.

Treasurer—HENRY H. HANCOCK, E J SMITH, Esq; H TWEEDY, Esq, M.D.

Committee—Mrs Wolseley, Mrs R P Hackett, Mrs Thompson, Mrs Simon Foot, Mrs Gennaly, Hon George Handcock, J H Hamilton, Esq, M P Anthony Lefroy, Esq, MP; Rev Philip Smith, R J Greene, Esq; Dr Tweedy, Rev S J L M'Gee, Dr M'Clintock; Dr Law, James Hawkins, Esq; Edward J Smith, Esq, Rev Priaulx, Rev D Moran, Rev C Wolseley, M A Santin, Esq; Rev W G Carroll.

Bankers—JAMES HAMILTON, Esq, M P; Hon. ANTHONY LEFROY, Esq, M P; Rev W G CARROLL.

Secretary—Mr. Upperdiggot-street.

The committee, thankfully acknowledging the very liberal support which it has received during the past year, beg earnestly to solicit renewed subscriptions.

The Report for 1859 is now printed, and can be had on application to the Secretary.

The establishment of the laundry and dryingroom (which could no longer be deferred) has required a sort outlay; but past experience affords the assurance that this appeal shall be addressed in vain to Christian sympathy for the means to meet this expenditure and maintain the Institution in full efficacy.

There are Thirty-eight Inmates in the house.

Contributions will be received by any member of the committee, by Mess. Ball, Bankers, Henry-street; at the Institution, Ball's-bridge; or by the Secretary, the Rev. W. G. Carroll, at the Office, 99, Upper Baggot-street, to whom Post Office Orders should be made payable.

LONDON AND NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

CHESTER AND HOLYHEAD LINE.

One of the Express Vessels of this Company will sail from the New Pier, Kingstown, daily (Sundays excepted), at 9-45 A.M.

In connexion with these Vessels, an Express Train will leave the Westland-row Station at 8-30 A.M.

(By order)
J. O. BINGER.

Chester, 1st October, 1860.

MIDLAND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

BALLINASLOE OCTOBER FAIR.

On THIS DAY (Friday), 5th, Saturday 6th, and Monday 8th October, a Special Express Train, with 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Class Carriages, will leave the Broadstone Terminus, at Five o'clock Morning, calling as follows:—

Blanchardstown,	5.10 a.m.	Moyvalley,	6.24 a.m.
Clonsilla,	5.16 "	Hill of Down,	6.36 "
Leixlip,	5.22 "	Kilcock,	6.50 "
Maynooth,	5.30 "	Mullingar,	7.10 "
Maynooth,	5.46 "	Castletown,	7.30 "
Kilcock,	5.54 "	Streamstown,	7.40 "
Ferns Clock	6.0 "	Moate,	7.51 "
Enfield,	6.15 "	Athlone,	8.16 "

And will arrive in Ballinasloe about forty-five minutes after Eight o'clock Morning.

Third Class Passengers will be booked by the Up Train leaving Ballinasloe at 1-40 p.m., for all Stations at which it calls, as per Company's Time Table.

N.B.—Special Goods trains, at Reduced Rates, will run from Ballinasloe.

On Thursday 4th, Friday 5th, and Saturday 6th October, the Train leaving Dublin at 4.0 p.m., will stop at Maynooth and Kilcock, to take up passengers for Ballinasloe only.

W. FORBES, Manager.

Broadstone, Dublin, 19th September, 1860.

Sermons.

THE ANNIVERSARY SERMONS Will be preached (D.V.) in the CENTENARY CHAPEL, STEPHEN'S-GREEN, On SUNDAY NEXT, OCT. 7th, BY THE Rev. GERVASE SMITH, of Manchester, At 12 o'clock Noon, and at 7 o'clock Evening.

Collections will be made after each service for the benefit of the Circuit Funds.

Education.

WOODVIEW SCHOOL, MERRION AVENUE, BLACKROCK, DUBLIN.

RE-OPENED FOR THE 1ST OF AUGUST.

H. T. HEMPHILL receives as Boarders a limited number of young Gentlemen, to whom minute and moral education he pays every attention.

The course of instruction includes Classics, Science, Modern Languages, and Drawing; with preparation, if they be desired for Commercial Life, for the Examinations for Commissions in the Army, for Scriptural Education is attended to, and the pupils have access to a good library, sent to extensive collections in Natural History.

The Play Ground is extensive.

Day Pupils also received.

Unexceptional reference given and required.

HER MAJESTY'S SERVICE.

DISTRICT COMMISSIONER.—Mr. Stapleton's ARMY Examination contains full and accurate information; references to every local point were have passed or have failed, from 1855 to 1860, with the names of those failures from other Establishments. At the late examinations Mr. WILLIAM GUINNESS, Deepwell, Blackrock, passed on one monthly Private Tuition number by Mr. STAPLETON.

ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE, SANDHURST.—The highest place (Fourth) of all Candidates from Ireland was obtained by Mr. STEWART, a Pupil prepared by Mr. STAPLETON, at the late Entrance Examination.

INDIAN ARMY.—Separate Preparation given for the examination of subjects appointed by Council for India, and for references to those who have passed direct from Mr. Stapleton.

Gentlemen desirous of being expeditiously prepared, or of distinguishing themselves, can have the advice of Mr. STAPLETON from Mr. STAPLETON, or from one of his staff of assistants.

WM. STAPLETON, A.B., T.C.D., Principal.
UNIVERSITY, CIVIL, AND MILITARY INSTITUTION,
76, KILDARE-STREET.

Legal Notices.

IN THE LANDED ESTATES COURT.
COUNTY OF LONGFORD.

In the matter of the Estate of
The Rev. Spencer William Walsh, Clerk, D.D.; Eleanor Slator, Spinster, Harvey Thomas Tuckey, a Minor, Elizabeth Tuckey, Angelo, widow; Robert Gordon Cumming, Charles Francis Cumming, and John Hunt Cumming
Owners:

The said Rev. Spencer William Walshe and Eleanor Slator, Petitioners.

THE Hon. Judge Long, sitting for the Rental will, on TUESDAY, the 6th day of NOVEMBER, 1860, at the hour of Twelve o'clock at Noon, at the Landed Estates Court, Henrietta-street, Dublin, the Town and Lands of Tooyar, held under lease for ever, bearing date the 1st day of October, 1737, and the Town and Lands of Aughababy, also held under lease for ever, bearing date the 10th day of May, 1740, in the barony of Moydow, and county of Longford, containing by estimation 1,274 acres, be the same more or less, together with the Dwellinghouse and Out-offices thereon erected, producing a yearly rent of £106 8s. 10d., which is paid by a first-class respectable tenant.

Dated this 20th day of July, 1860.

JAMES M'DONNELL, Examiner.

THEODORE CRONHELM, Solicitor, No. 9, Eustace-street, Dublin.

For rentals and further particulars apply at the office of the Judges of the Landed Estates Courts, No. 32, Eustace-street, Dublin.

JOSEPH KENTLAW, Auctioneer, 129, Lower Gardiner-street, Dublin.

THEODORE CRONHELM, Solicitor, having our copy of the order for sale, 9, Eustace-street, Dublin.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

The premises lie on the road from Moydow, within four miles of Longford, which is the county town, and adjoins the Railway Terminus. The Royal Canal runs close to the lands; the lands are of excellent quality, and consist about 187a. Sr. 20p., English statute measure, and about 28 Irish of Tarbert, like measure. The lands are well planted with full-grown ash, beech, and other timber trees, in very numerous and valued at £1000. There is a commodious modern-built Dwelling in the lands, which is in good repair. Besides suitable out-offices, there is also a good Kitchen and Fruit Garden on the lands. The right of the public to use the said public road through the lands of Tooyar is reserved. The tenant from Archibald Boyle, Esq., Rutland-square, Dublin, and from Longford to Moydow, and through Tooyar Bog to Ballymahon, will be reserved in the conveyance to purchasers.

Houses and Lands.

KINGSTOWN.—TO BE LET, Furnished, until the 1st day of next March, a newly and comfortably-furnished house in one of the best situations in Kingstown. The house faces the sea, and commands a fine view of the Bay and Harbour.—For further particulars, please apply to TALBOT COGLE, Esq., 18, Upper George's-street, Kingstown; or to R. L. DIXON Town Office.

NORTH SIDE—TO BE LET, UNFURNISHED, 72, FAIRVIEW-AVENUE, containing two excellent sitting-rooms, middle of next March, a newly and comfortably-furnished house in one of the best situations in Kingstown. The house faces the sea, and commands a fine view of the Bay and Harbour.—For further particulars, please apply to TALBOT COGLE, Esq., 18, Upper George's-street, Kingstown; or to R. L. DIXON Town Office.

NORTH SIDE—TO BE LET, UNFURNISHED, 72, FAIRVIEW-AVENUE, containing two excellent sitting-rooms, middle of next March, a newly and comfortably-furnished house in one of the best situations in Kingstown. The house faces the sea, and commands a fine view of the Bay and Harbour.—For further particulars, please apply to TALBOT COGLE, Esq., 18, Upper George's-street, Kingstown; or to R. L. DIXON Town Office.

Lodgings.

BOARD AND APARTMENTS, at 19, Windsor-terrace, Kingstown.

CARRIAGES.—ROYAL HORSE BAZAAR 94, STEPHEN'S-GREEN.

Mr. BROWN, 22?, Oldcourt, Lexington, and sole Proprietor of the above Establishment, begs respectfully to direct the attention of the public to the large and varied selection of first-class Carriages, now on View at his Carriage Repository, which will be Sold or Hired at rates worthy the especial attention of purchasers.

Amongst the stock will be found New and Second-hand

Broughams,	Pariscos,
Clarences,	Open and Close Cars,
Phaetons,	Dog Carts,
Britskas,	Pony Carriages,
Mail Phaetons,	&c. &c. &c.

Money.

TO CAPITALISTS AND CONTRACTORS.—Advertiser has an opportunity of obtaining some Lucrative Contracts, if he could obtain a Partner with capital, who would have full control over the disbursements and profits, and be responsible. £500 only would be required. Letters from principals only, appointing an interview, will be attended to, if addressed "B. S. S.," Irish Times Office.

Insurances.

GLOBE INSURANCE, CORN-HILL and PALL-MALL, LONDON;

AND
9, CAVENDISH-ROW, RUTLAND-SQUARE, DUBLIN.

FIRE and LIFE, and ANNUITIES and REVERSIONS.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

CAPITAL—ONE MILLION STERLING.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE—Receipts for Renewal of FIRE Policies which became due on 29th September, 1860 (Michaelmas Quarter), are now ready for delivery, and should be paid on or before the 14th October instant.

Prospectuses (with full Tables and Details) and Forms may be had at the Company's Offices, or of the Agents.

JOHN K. JAMES & CO.,
9, CAVENDISH-ROW, RUTLAND-SQUARE, DUBLIN.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY.
Capital—TWO MILLIONS Sterling.
TOTAL ANNUAL REVENUE EXCEEDS £900,000.
ACCUMULATED FUNDS IN HAND OVER £700,000.
FIRE.
Nearly the Largest Company in the World.
LIFE.
LARGE BONUS DECLARED BY PER CENT. PER ANNUM
ON THE SUMS ASSURED.
DIVISION OF PROFITS EVERY FIVE YEARS,
To Policies then in existence two entire years.
Branch Office for Ireland, 35, Dame-street.
No. 45, DAME-STREET.
LOCAL MANAGER:
J. R. CURRY, Esq.
Public Accountant and Auditor.

MEDICAL OFFICERS:
THOMAS E. BEATTY, M.D., 36, Mountjoy-square.
THOMAS G. GEOGHEGAN, Esq., M.D., 9, Upper Merrion-street.
SOLICITOR:
EDWARD J. SMITH, Esq., Rutland-square.
DISTRICT AGENTS:
RATHDAR—Mr. Joseph Maguire, Architect, 2, Kenilworth-square.
KINGSTOWN—Mr. Talbot Cogle, Scarborough Buildings.
DALKEY—Mr. Henry Parkinson, Castle.
DUBLIN—Messrs. Cotton and Levey, Bridge-street.
BRAY—Mr. James Hill.
WICKLOW—At the Principal Towns.
N.B.—Gentlemen of influential position and activity will be appointed where the Company is not represented. Application to be made to

J. R. CURRY, Esq.,
45, Dame-street, Dublin.

THE FAIMLY ENDOWMENT LIFE ASSURANCE AND ANNUITY SOCIETY,
ESTABLISHED 1835.
Empowered by Special Act of Parliament.
No. 17, PALL-MALL, LONDON.
SUBSCRIBED CAPITAL—HALF A MILLION STERLING.
HEAD OFFICE, 42, NEW BRIDGE-STREET, LONDON, E.C.

WILLIAM BUTTERWORTH BAILEY, Esq., 9, Henrietta-street, Cavendish square.
C. H. LATOUCHE, Esq., 12, St. Paul's Churchyard.
JOSHUA WALKER, Esq., 40, Upper Harley-street, Cavendish-sq.
DIRECTORS.
JOHN FULLER, Esq., Somerton, Somerset, CHAIRMAN.
Lieut.-Col. H. B. HENDERSON, M.P.I.C.S., Junior United Service Club, DEPUTY CHAIRMAN.
Major LEWIS HERCHOUGHS, H.E.I.S., Junior United Service Club, Warrior-place.
ROBERT BRUCE CHICHESTER, Esq., 8, New square, Lincoln's Inn.
D. M. GOSLING, Esq., Harpsden Court, near Henley-on-Thames.
JASPER W. JOHNS, Esq., 3, Learmonth Powtney-hill, City.
C. H. LATOUCHE, Esq., 12, St. Paul's Churchyard.
EDWARD LEE, Esq., 9, Byrnestone square.
Major ROBERT GUTHRIE MACGREGOR, 57, Chesse-street, City.
Colonel J. W. J. OUSELEY, H.E.I.C.S., Haileybury College.
CHARLES EDWARD TROTTER, Esq., 16, Serle-street, Lincoln's Inn.
JOSHUA WALKER, Esq., 40, Upper Harley-street, Cavendish-square.
AUDITORS.
WELBORE ELLIS, Esq., Kew, Surrey, Kensington Buildings.
LIONEL SKIPWITH, Esq., 20, Great Knight Rider-street Doctor's Commons.
STANDING COUNSEL.
T. S. DANIEL, Esq., Q.C., 6, Gough Square, Lincoln's Inn.
SOLICITORS.
Messrs. LACY and BRIDGES, 19, King's Arms Yard, Coleman-street.
BANKERS.
Messrs. SMITH, PAYNE, and SMITHS', 1, Lombard-street, City
PHYSICIAN.
P. M. ROGER, M.D., F.R.S., 11, Upper Bedford-place, Russell-place.
SURGEON.
EDWARD COOK, F.R.C.S., Senior Surgeon, Guy's Hospital, and 12, St. Thomas's-street, South-wark.

This society transacts every description of Life Assurance, Endowment, and Annuity Business, and centers upon the Assured the advantages of a Mutual Office, combined with perfect security, by means of the large Subscribed Capital, in addition to an income of upwards of Fifty Thousand Pounds per annum, and an Invested Accumulated Premium Fund amounting to about Two Hundred Thousand Pounds.

Full prospectuses, Forms of Proposal for Assurance, and every information to may be obtained on application to any of the Company's Agents.

AGENTS FOR DUBLIN:
DILLON O'CONNOR, Esq., 21, Bachelor's Walk;
WILLIAM STEWART, Esq., Low Exchange, Dublin;
WILLIAM PATTEN, Esq., Ballyfermot, Dalkey.

Medical.

ESTABLISHED BY HAYDEN AND PALMER
GENERAL MEDICAL PRACTICE.
DR. PALMER,
At 22, MERRION-SQUARE NORTH, (Corner of Holles-street.)
Physician and Surgeon of twenty-five years' practice, Graduate, Member, Doctor and Licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, Accoucheur to the Rotunda Lying-in-Hospital, and Ex-Pupil for Practice on Anatomy, Physiology, Dissections, and Demonstrations at the Royal College of Surgeons.

Hours of Attendance—9 to 11 Morning, 7 to 9 Evening.
Sundays, 9 to 11.

Evening—Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, 7 to 9 o'clock.

Consultation Fee (if required Anytime and Anywhere), Five Shillings, at Dr. Palmer's Residence; Consultations by letter, 10s. Medicines extra.

PAINLESS TOOTH EXTRACTION
By Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent,
CARTWRIGHT AND DAVIS,
Surgeon and Mechanical Dentists,
34, GRAFTON-STREET, DUBLIN,
Have introduced the
SLUNDELL'S PATENT APPARATUS
For Painless Tooth Extraction, Stopping, and Fixing Artificial Teeth.
A case of which, although simple in its action, and used with the greatest facility, Messrs. C. and D. guarantee, with this invaluable Patent, to extract the most decayed tooth or stump (however painful or dreadful) from the gum, without the slightest pain or inconvenience.

Sets, Halfs, setters from any mark, finished; and Scurvy to the Gums, Tartar from the Teeth, &c.

A Single Artificial Tooth, from ... £0 5 0
A Set, with Gold Plate, from ... £5 5 0

CARTWRIGHT AND DAVIS,
34, GRAFTON-STREET (Few Doors from College-green.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL,
Administered with the greatest success in cases of CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATIC AFFECTIONS, GOUT, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, MESENTERIC AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Extensive experience, and the concurring testimony of most learned and eminent medical practitioners, prove this to be the purest, most efficacious, and palatable Cod Liver Oil that can be procured, being entirely free from that nauseous taste and smell so characteristic of the Oil in its ordinary state.

Sold in Imperial Half-Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.; capsuled and labelled with DR. DE JONGH'S stamp and signature, without which none can possess the genuine or effective properties of this medicine.

SOLE CONSIGNEES:
ANSAR, HARFORD, AND CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.

GEORGE OLDHAM AND CO. (WHOLESALE AND RETAIL AGENTS), 117, Grafton-street, and 98, Dame-street; DEWLEY AND EVANS, 108 & 109, Lower Sackville-street; HUTTON, 54, Lower Abbey-street; and BEWLEY EVANS AND CO., 23 Mary-street.

Publications.

ON EVERY SATURDAY, the SATURDAY HERALD is published at the following rates:—

Unstamped, ... 0s 1d ... Stamped, ... 0s 2½d

SUBSCRIPTION:

UNSTAMPED:		STAMPED
Yearly,	0s 6d	Yearly,	1s 6d
Half-Yearly,	0s 3d	Half-Yearly,	0s 9d
Quarterly,	0s 1½d	Quarterly,	0s 3d

The Proprietor, indeed, by the great success which has attended the Saturday Herald since its Establishment, has determined, in order to enable every class of Protestants to enjoy the advantages of a first-class Weekly Paper, to publish it at the still lower Price of THREE-HALFPENCE.

Those whose business during the week has prevented them from availing themselves of the publication of the Saturday Herald will now be able to obtain a first-class weekly one, containing the entire news of the week, carefully arranged and reported, at a price within the reach of all.

Each publication will contain several articles ably written on subjects of social and general interest, and literary reviews, notices, &c.

As an advertising medium it will offer unsurpassed advantages for Business Notices, persons requiring Situations, &c., and by means of every Saturday Herald it will be simultaneously circulated each Saturday Morning throughout the length and breadth of Ireland, and the great success of the Irish Times will be a fair criterion of the manner in which the Saturday Herald will be conducted. Nothing will be spared to render it a supporter of our Protestant Constitution in Church and State, and as such to merit a place in every Protestant family in Ireland.

Post Office Orders, &c., are to be made payable to
J. G. H. F. ——, Esq.
SATURDAY HERALD OFFICE,
Lower Abbey-street, and 18, Sackville-place.

The Price Reduced to 3d. each work.—Now ready, in 18mo, price 9d. each work,

GLEIG'S SCHOOL SERIES: intended to comprise a complete course of Elementary Education. Projected and Edited by the Rev G. R. GLEIG, M.A., Chaplain-General to H. M. Forces, and late Inspector of Military Schools. Also by the Rev. J. FRASER, Captain A. C. Gleig, R.A.; the Rev J. Hunter, M.A.; Professor De Fivas; A. Thomas Thin, F.R.A.S.; A.K. Isbister, M.A.; W. J. Reynolds, M.A., &c.

The following Works may be had, greatly improved:—
Gradual Spelling Book, 96 pp. Copy-books. Each 3d.
First School-book to Teach Reading and Writing. 6d.
Second School-book to Teach Reading and Spelling. 9d.
Simple Lessons. 9d.
Explanatory English Grammar. 9d.
History of the English Language. 9d.
Book of Health. 9d.
Book of Domestic Economy. 9d.
Book of Biography. 9d.
Child's First Geography. 9d.
Geography for Young People. 9d.
General Geography. 9d.
Hand Atlas of General Geography, full-coloured (half-bound, 3s) 2s 6d.
Class Atlas of Physical Geography, full-coloured (half-bound, 3s). 2s 6d.
Boyman's Questions on M'Leod's Physical Atlas. 1d.
History of France. 9d.
Sacred History. 9d., sold; or in two parts, each 9d.
History of the Church; or in two parts, each 9d.
History of the British Colonies. 9d.
History of British India. 9.
Historical Questions. Part 1 on above. 9d.
Part 2 on ditto. 9d.
History of Ancient Rome. 9d.
Natural History for beginners. 9d. cloth; or two parts, each 9d.
Astronomy for Use of the Globes. 9d.
Manual of Arithmetic. 9d.
Bookkeeping by single and Double Entry. 9d.
Eight Arithmetical Exercises to the above. Each 9d.
Practical Geometry. 1s.
Elements of Mensuration. 9d. Key (just ready).
Elements of Algebra. 9d. Answers, forming a Key, 9d.
Element of Euclid. 9d.
Hydrostatics, Hydraulics, and Pneumatics. 9d.
Mechanical Philosophy for Beginners. 9d.
Light and Heat, simplified for Beginners. 9d.
Magnetism, Voltaic Electricity, and Electro-Dynamics, for Beginners. 9d.
Experimental Chemistry. 9d.
Mechanics and the Steam Engine. 9d.
London, Longman, Green, Longman, and Roberts.

BOOKS for the SEASIDE and the COUNTRY

Birds' Nests, with 22 Coloured plates of Eggs. 16mo, cloth, 4s 6d.
Birds of the Sea shore. Coloured Plates. 16mo, cloth gilt, 1s 6d.
Birds of the Wood and Field. Edited by the Rev C A Johns, B A, F L S. In a packet containing 12 cards. Printed in colours, 1s.
Descriptive Text by the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 2s.
British Butterflies (Papilio of). Containing 12 cards. Printed in Colours, 1s.
British Fishes (A Familiar History of the). With numerous Engravings. Fcp 8vo, cloth boards, 4s.
British Spiders, and Forester's Manual. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 3s.
Channel Islands (Rambles among the). By A Naturalist. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 3s.
Chapters on Common Things by the Seaside. By Anne Pratt. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 5s.
Dictionary of Creation. New and revised edition. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 5s.
Evenings at the Microscope. By T H Gosse, Esq. Post 8vo, cloth, 7s.
Flowering Plants of Great Britain. By Anne Pratt. Vols I to V, with Coloured Plates. 8vo, cloth gilt, each vol 10s.
Flowering Plants of Great Britain. By Anne Pratt. Form ing Vol VI. Coloured Plates. 8vo, cloth gilt, 12s.
Flowering Grasses and Sedges (British). By Anne Pratt. Coloured Plates, illustrating every British species. Forming Vol VII. 8vo, cloth gilt, 10s 6d.
Flowers of the Field. By Rev C A Johns. Fcp 8vo, new edition, cloth, 7s.
Forest Trees. By Rev C A Johns. Two vols fcp 8vo, [cloth, 7s 6d.
Gardening for Children. By the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 2s.
Grass Fields (The) and their Grasses. By Anne Pratt. Fcp 8vo, 1s.
Lizard (A Week at the). With Map. By the Rev C A Johns, 16mo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Monthly Flower Garden (The). Coloured Plates. 16mo, cloth gilt, 1s 6d.
Monthly Gleanings from the Field and Garden. Edited by the Rev C A Johns. With 24 Coloured Plates. Imperial 16mo, extra cloth gilt, 7s 6d.
Monthly Window Flowers. Edited by the Rev C A Johns. With 12 Coloured Plates. 16mo, cloth gilt, 1s 6d.
Monthly Wild Flowers. Edited by the Rev C A Johns. With 12 Coloured Plates. 16mo, cloth gilt, 1s 6d.
Ocean (The). By P H Gosse, Esq. Post 8vo, cloth, 4s 6d.
Phenomena of Nature (The). Fcp 8vo, cloth, 2s.
Polemoniums, Gentianworts, and their Allies. Each 6d.
By Anne Pratt. With 44 Coloured Plates. Imperial 16mo, cloth, 6s.
Rain Cloud (The). By C Tomlinson, Esq. 16mo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Rambles in Spring. By the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 1s.
Rambles in Summer. By the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 1s.
Rambles in Autumn. By the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 1s.
Rambles in Winter. By the Rev C A Johns. 16mo, cloth, 1s.
Rural Architecture (Hints on). By Mrs. Charles Tomlinson. Fcp 8vo cloth, 2s 6d.
Seaside Pleasure. Fcp 8vo, limp cloth, 2s.
Sketches of Nature (Natural). By Anne Pratt. With 73 Coloured Plates. 16mo, cloth, 3s.
Tempest (The). By C. Tomlinson, Esq. 16mo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Thunderstorm (The). New Edition. By C. Tomlinson, Esq. Fcp, 8vo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Wanderings through the Conservatories at Kew. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Watering Places of England. Fcp 8vo, cloth, 2s 6d.
Wild Flowers. By Anne Pratt. In 2 vols, with 130 Coloured Plates. 16mo cloth, 6s.
Wonders for the Sea Shore. 16mo, cloth, 2s 6d.
White's Natural History of Selborne. Arranged for Young Persons, and Ed

MONEY MARKET AND COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

(WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE IRISH TIMES.)

Dublin, Thursday Evening.

Telegraphic communication with London having been resumed to-day, the English Funds appear to have fully sustained an advance of one-quarter per cent., which took place yesterday. Every movement in the Paris Bourse is, and has been during the recent political struggle, anxiously watched and quickly responded to, and to an upward movement there the present to, and to an upward movement must be attributed. In our local favourable tendency must be attributed. favourable tendency must be attributed. In our local favourable tendency must be attributed. In our local favourable tendency must be attributed. In our local Correspondence.

CROSSES OF WOOD AND STONE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—My attention has just been drawn to an article in your number of yesterday, headed "Crosses of Wood and Stone," in which your correspondent says, "The first attempt to introduce such things (in our Protestant churches) was made some time ago at Sandymount Church, near Dublin. The congregation disapproved, got up, and walked off."

I beg leave to observe that there is not, and never was, any such thing in that church; and that, so far from its having deserted by the congregation "walking off," it is often filled to inconvenience, and most steadily attended by the inhabitants of the district.

Persons who make such statements should be aware that, besides the want of strict attention to truth in them—as in the present instance—they are an indirect charge against the bishop of the diocese, who has the power (which the officiating minister has not) to order the removal of anything objectionable. But, as the Archbishop of Dublin opened and licensed the church, besides preaching in it subsequently at different times, it is evident that he saw nothing in it which called for such an exercise of his authority.

Your correspondent professes to be zealous for the observance of the Second Commandment. Would that we were all more scrupulous in our observance of the Ninth!—I am, your obedient servant,

WM. DE BURGH, D.D.,
Incumbent of Sandymount Church.

[We regret to say that the above communication was inadvertently mislaid for some days.]

NORTH DUBLIN UNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

DEAR SIR,—The Protestant public ought to be obliged to the Rev. Mr. Shore for bringing the case of young Duffy before them; and to you, for your admirable article in yesterday's paper, relative to the same. I would wish to make an observation concerning Mr. Atkin's motion, as regards the assistant Mr. Shore has. He states that the Rev. Mr. Faulkner was dismissed for having an assistant. This is not the case. Mr. Faulkner's assistant was paid by the guardians. Mr. Shore's assistant is not paid one penny by them. Mr. Faulkner was dismissed because he required the guardians to pay him a chaplain to assist him. Mr. Shore asks them to do so such a thing. Let the guardians remember this on next Tuesday. It is a pity that Mr. Shore, who has for very many years performed his duties diligently, without giving offence to any person, Protestant or Roman Catholic. It is very creditable, as you observed, that the North Union has not been the scene of one dispute for so long. Surely, such a state of peace must be due, in some measure, to the Christian spirit of the chaplain.—I remain, sir, yours faithfully,

Z.

October 5, 1860.

NEW POST-OFFICE REGULATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Will you kindly permit me, through the medium of your valuable and widely-circulated journal, to give publicity to an enormous inconvenience already felt by many professional gentlemen and traders in my locality, arising out of recent alterations in the postal department, and which I conceive will be increased by the new regulations, to commence on the 1st of October, by not receiving letters after 5-30 p.m., till 11 o'clock the following morning.

I feel confident the Post-office authorities will at once meet this outcry by placing a pillar-box in the neighbourhood of the Four Courts, &c., &c. I may say, one of our leading thoroughfares for all classes of the community.—I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

P. B., Ormond-quay (Upper).

RAILWAY DESIDERATA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have been thinking that if railway companies had their carriages regularly numbered it would save much confusion and valuable time. Passengers have often to leave the carriages in which they are travelling, and at night, especially, it is not easy to find the same again. Considerable inconvenience, and often loss, attend the mistake; whereas, if the carriages were plainly and conspicuously numbered outside, the difficulty of regaining the proper seat would be much lessened, if not altogether obviated; the mind of the traveller would be at ease, and some other employment could engage the attention of the railway official whose time is too often occupied in a searching out missing parcels.

W. T.

—I am, sir, &c.,

October 1, 1860.

ATLANTIC ROYAL MAIL STEAM COMPANY, UNDER A NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Shannon-grove, Banagher,
Oct. 4th, 1860.

SIR,—Your able advocacy of the true interests of this Irish Company, and your exposure of the errors and mismanagement of its London Board of Directors, both lead me to believe you will give insertion in your able and widely-circulating journal to the enclosed letter, to which no reply has up to this been vouchsafed.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,

P. B. MOORE.

Shannon-grove, Banagher,
Sept. 21, 1860.

TO THE SECRETARY OF THE ATLANTIC ROYAL MAIL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

SIR,—I have this day received notice as a shareholder in this company of a third and final call of £1 per share, which I am ready to pay up, as I have already done to the amount of £9 per share.

Before doing so, however, I would beg leave to inquire have the directors succeeded in obtaining payment of £9 a share from all parties to whom shares have been allocated? and if not, to suggest that they imperfectly fulfil their duty to those who have paid up all calls, by omitting to inflict the penalty of confiscation upon those who have only paid £6 on their £8!!! Some of the latter I have myself heard of at a premium. Would never pay more until the directors were at a premium.

Awaiting a reply to this query, and apprising you (if it be not satisfactory) of my intention to publish the letter and its answer—I am, sir, your obedient servant,

HUBERT B. MOORE.

[We regret to say that the above communication was inadvertently mislaid for some days.]

TRAMWAYS AND OMNIBUSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

DEAR EDITOR,—Not knowin how to rite myself i have borowed the pen of a frind what is a Poleman and a scholar to express my feeslins on the subjeck of Tramways. I always lyes the Tramways and of cource on Saturday seen the letter from a gintleman named H which i'm thinkin is unkind to men in my business of carmen or as yourself wud call me a Jarvey shure enuff he wants us to take our fares down a Tramway is equil to a drive in the outside. Now drive on a Tramway is equil to what Tramways is like the annibuses, which he says they are, shure enuff they must be mighty uncomfortable entirely, for all the Jarvies knows right well that the only reason they live at all is because there is no rides all-out. Ass say young lady which was cotched in a bus all-out. And as any young lady ought to be bound only to convey 14 or any old gentleman which is not able to walk, or any one which they'd rather travell on an outside to themselves or the like, and not be packed in like sheep in a pin or be skweeze'd to nigh death between 19 people in a buss which on nights when there is a press of fares has been though the buss as i have said must only carry 14 parsons.

Ask him this and tell him that the Tramways wud be the same and satisfied then it therell be no sich thing in Old Dublin or anywhere else in Ireland.

The gintleman says the outside are filthy hackney cars and half-starved horses. This is a lie as all knows. There never was finer body of beasts than them, which can prove by sayin that many av the horses in the Crimea war was taken from under cover cars after the war and sarvin their masther for several years. Them ass came back sarvin ther masther for several years. Them ass came back and warnt kilt are in sarvice yit, and the animals they are to. The gintleman says the Tramways will be comfortable carriages and well ventilated and i'd like to know how he knows this unless he is going to start one for himself or knows somebody what is which he says he dosent. Ventilation is part being a carman 13 years i dont like built and never did. If Tramways comes in and outsides goes out yel know how hard it'll be to get on where ye want and av you miss the time it starts you'll be longing to get the poor carmen what is dead back agin to drive ye at any minite to any place ye like and so do every one except over the say. i love the TIMES and so do every except over the say. i love the TIMES and so do every Jarvey for fighin agin the Tramway. Fight on still Mr. Editor, and we'll give ye a free drive and all the establishment whenever yez like,—i remains your vary humble servint

A CARMAN.

[The above is from a genuine carman.]

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

63, South Great George's-street, October 2nd, 1860.

SIR,—I was much pleased to read, in your report of the proceedings of the Social Science Association of Glasgow, that the subject of co-operative societies occupied the attention of that respectable body. If such men as those who attended that meeting would not only recognise the usefulness of co-operation, but would take as much interest in the success of that movement as to assist with their advice in the framing of a constitution for the government and proper management of such societies, they would be in a fair way of doing more for the working classes of the United Kingdom than any Imperial enactment could possibly effect. The movement, as you are aware, is comparatively of recent date, and, like all infant undertakings, will require great care in its management, so as to avoid those evils which might be hurtful to arise within, and counteract such as might threaten it from without.

The chief benefit to be derived from such societies will be to the advantage of the working classes themselves. By the simple expenditure of their money at their own store, in the purchase of articles of daily consumption, these classes will be able to secure to themselves, not only a fair share of the profits derived from the sale of those articles, but also to provide an allowance in case of sickness, medical attendance, and a sum at death; thereby saving thousands from the workhouse, and lessening the amount of poor-rates. And while imparting a degree of self-respect to many who have hitherto had little or no respect for themselves—bringing comfort to many a family who has been sorely tried with grinding poverty—it will, at the same time, be a benefit to employers, in relieving them, to some extent, of part of the taxpayers, in relieving them, to some extent, of part of the burdens which they are at present compelled to bear.

But it would require too much space to mention all the benefits which may accrue from the general application of the principles of co-operation.

To those of your readers who have any sympathy with that cause, I have great pleasure in stating that a branch of the society, which aims at uniting the different existing societies as well as those yet to be formed, has been commenced in Dublin; and that already we have nearly fifty members enrolled, representing between sixty and seventy shares of £1 each. When we have a hundred members and their shares all paid up, a store will be opened in this city, and thus the benefits alluded to above brought within the reach of the members of the society to have their names enrolled at 63, Jervis-street, and at other times at 63, South Great George's-street.

Although very little effort has been put forth, and consequently the shortness of the time since we commenced, we have succeeded as well as could be expected, as we have raised, or have engaged to raise, £179, and I have no doubt, if the thing were more generally known, we would in a very short time be able to secure the stipulated amount.—Respectfully yours,

W. R. LEMON.

THE TURKISH BATH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The question of the introduction of the Turkish bath into this country, and its usefulness as a preservative of health or as a cure for disease, is one of great importance, and the numerous and conflicting statements put forth, from time to time, in the public prints, some by its friends, others by opponents of the latter class, and those who understand the subject are evidently founded their opinions on little better than hearsay or prejudice. I shall not enter into controversy on the subject, as I consider that, like other great truths which have been at first ridiculed by the "wise and prudent," it will soon make its way, and that as information extends, and the numbers who choose to avail themselves of the delightful refreshment and invigoration of a properly-constructed and well-conducted Turkish bath, this opposition will soon find its level.

I have several accounts in print of "Visits to a Turkish Bath," some being the experience of travellers in the East, and others of those who have taken the bath here or in England. It would appear from these that the practice varies in different places. Some of the accounts by no means pleasant ideas of the great heat, and of the process of shampooing; but all agree in the important fact of the refreshment and invigoration which succeeds the process.

There are many who have no small curiosity to know in what this process really consists, and yet who have not the courage (!) enough to try for themselves, and as it is only now to do, I think I may serve the cause by giving a plain, unvarnished" account of my own experience, a few mornings since, at one of our local baths.

After a pleasant walk of half a mile, I reached the Baths, which are nicely situated just off the great thoroughfare.—I entered, and, having taken my ticket, was shown into a spacious and well-ventilated apartment, surrounded with dressing closets, neatly curtained off, and each containing a soft couch or Turkish lounger, for reclining on, when cooling after the bath. The usual requisites, such as mirror, combs, brushes, towels, &c., were also provided. Into one of those closets I was handed, being at the same time supplied by the attendant with a large soft sheet and a striped girdle or apron, which ties round the waist, reaching to the knees.—Having undressed, and donned this cool costume, and adjusted a pair of wooden clogs to my feet, I threw the sheet round my shoulders, and was conducted through an adjacent door into the first of the hot-air chambers. The sensation on entering was certainly new, and not the most agreeable, although very far, indeed, from the "stifling, suffocating, or choking" accounts I had read and heard of. It was only momentary, and arose from a kind of instinctive fear that I could not long breathe such a warm atmosphere with impunity. After the first two or three minutes this feeling entirely passed off; perhaps I was the more readily reassured by seeing two or three others in the same predicament as myself, who, it appeared, were "old hands," and who told me that in a few moments I should be enjoying it just as much as themselves, and they certainly appeared to be "quite at home."

I now stretched myself on one of the couches which surround the room, and had leisure to look about me. The apartment, which was lighted by coloured stars in the arched ceiling, appeared to be about 24 feet long, by 15 wide, and was divided in the centre by a partition, rising nearly to the top. The ingenious contrivances for ventilation were pointed out to me, by which a never-failing supply of fresh warm air is secured, without the possibility of contamination from admixture with the smoke of the chimnies from the heating furnaces. By this time the newness of the first sensations had entirely passed away, and I began to feel "quite comfortable." The heat was about 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and felt neither dry nor parching, nor yet was it in the least vaporous or steamy, but had just that pleasant moisture which gives an idea of softness—in fact, "suggests" perspiration. Very soon my skin began to "give way." I was handed from time to time a glass of deliciously cool water, which appeared to be quite in request here, and was eagerly partaken of by the bathers. It appears this is quite necessary in order to compensate for the loss of moisture by perspiration whilst in the bath. After remaining here for some minutes longer, in a pleasantly dreamy state, and thinking it, without exception, the most thorough and perfect rest I had had for many a day, the attendant came, and having examined the state of my skin, pronounced me sufficiently "done" for the next stage of the process. I then proceeded to the inner compartment, which is even hotter than the other. Having reclined here for some 15 or 20 minutes, I found the perspiration coming from every pore, but there was not the slightest tendency to headache or giddiness, which, I am informed, not unfrequently accompanies overheated baths. Then commenced the operation of "shampooing," which I was agreeably disappointed to find a much less severe affair "than travellers' tales" would indicate. I have always thought, when reading those neck-breaking, joint-twisting, &c., descriptions, that there must, at least, be much unnecessary force, if not violence, used in some of the Eastern baths, and found the practice here is not only vastly pleasanter, but, as I am informed by some who have experienced both modes, is quite as effectual for all the purposes of health or refreshment.

The shampooing was neither "pinching" nor "kneading," but rather something between the two. The sensation produced by it was certainly not disagreeable, rather the contrary. The attendant next loosened up my hair, rubbing hands lightly across the forehead, and down the sides of the head. This had a pleasantly cooling effect. I then partook of another glass of water, and the attendant left me for a few moments to rest myself, whilst he went to prepare the douching apparatus for my washing, which I found I was next to undergo. These douches, or washing closets, are partitioned off, and contain each a hot foot room, and are supplied with hot, cold, and tepid water pipes and basins, with a low seat for the bathers. Divesting myself of my scanty costume I sat down, and the attendant commenced by pouring over my head and shoulders an all bowlsful of warm water. This I felt extremely agreeable after the heated air, and the profuse perspiration. He then lathered me plentifully with some peculiarly sweet kind of soap (glycerine, I think), and, telling me to close my eyes, poured over me a jet of tepid water, washing my whole person as completely as if I was immersed in a river. Thus all the impurities were thoroughly washed away, the water passing off immediately it had done its duty through a channel under the tiled floor. By some ingenious management of the apparatus, the tepid water gradually became cooler, but no cold was used except over the feet. I was then enveloped again in a dry, warm sheet, and led outwards to the tepid chamber again, where I was left to remain for a few minutes, and gently wipe off the sweat still streaming wet, but I found it of no attempt drying my skin, which was now in such a softened condition that it would require some ten or fifteen minutes "seasoning" in the open air before resuming its natural outer atmosphere, on passing into which the shock was not unlike that which we feel on jumping into the sea for a swim on a hot summer's day. At first, I feared taking cold, and was proceeding to dress, when I was stopped by the intelligent proprietor of the baths, who pays close and constant attention to the comforts and requirements of his visitors, and appears thoroughly to understand the subject. He requested me to recline on the Turkish lounger until quite cool before dressing, and explained how and why we should not resume our dress before the body has come down to its natural temperature, and the pores recovered from their condition. There was not the slightest danger of cold, and I not complied with this request, I can now understand how I should have quite lost the sense of refreshment and invigoration which resulted. In less time than it has taken me to tell it, the chilling sensation had entirely passed off, and the exposure in the pure refreshing atmosphere of this locality was exceedingly agreeable, the gradual cooling being attended with a gradually increasing consciousness of returning vigour and elasticity of frame and limbs. Perhaps ten or fifteen minutes I was ready to dress. Looking at my watch I found it was just one hour and twenty-five minutes since I had entered the baths. Now after several days have passed, the retrospect affords me just that feeling of pleasure which inclines me to repeat the process on my next visit, and whilst I would say that some of the stories of the wonderful lightness and "jumping-over-the-moon" sensation are rather highly coloured, yet I must acknowledge that I certainly felt a greater sense of thorough cleanliness than I had ever enjoyed before, and a glow of warmth and vigour pervading my frame which made my return walk doubly pleasant.

In conclusion, I may say that I wish the enterprising proprietor of these baths every success, which I have no doubt he will meet with, as the surrounding population become increasingly acquainted with the truly enjoyable and health-preserving boon he has offered for their acceptance.

ANTI-PREJUDICE.

Sporting.

LIMERICK RACES—THURSDAY.

Small fields were again the order of the day, and the racing does not call for any particular remarks. New Broom carried off the Munster Handicap, proving herself a first-rate weight-carrier and sure fencer. The following is a return:—

Free handicap of 3 sovs each, with sovs added; mile and a half. Four to start, a half heats on the flat.

Mr D Meany's Katty Flanagan, by Kingfisher, 5 yrs, 8st 4lb (Mr Nerny)	...	1	2 1
Mr Usher's Fairy Saint, 8st 10lb (Archer) ...	...	2	3 dr
Mr Eagar's Fie, 8st 7lb (D Wynne)	...	3	dis
Mr Hennessy's Sir Clarence, (D Wynne) ...	...	dis

Fie broke down after the second heat, and was drawn.

Munster Steeplechase of 80 sovs, added to a sweepstakes of 4 sovs each. 3 miles.

Mr Wallis' New Broom, by Damask, 12st 3lb (Noble)	1
Capt M'Creight's Clown, 11st 10lb (Mr Nerny) ...	2
Mr Annesley's Lillis, 11st 12lb (M'Nerny) ...	3

Not placed—Glendalough, 10st 8lb (Hyland); Alto, late Good Friday, 11st 4lb (J Wynne).

Won by a length and a half.

Ladies' Purse, 30 sovs added to a sweepstakes of 2 sovs each. One and a half mile heats on the flat.

Capt Stackpoole's Barfleur, by Collingwood, 10st 12lb (Mr Thomas)	...	1	1
Capt M'Creight's Weatherwise, 9st 12lb ...	...	1	dis
Mr Studdart's Miss Margaret, 9st 13lb (Capt Quin)	3	dr
Mr White's Queen of Clubs, 9st 13lb (Capt Westropp)	4	dr

Won cleverly.

Coursing.

NORTH UNION COURSING CLUB—WEDNESDAY.

President—The Viscount Massereene and Ferrard.

Stewards—Lord Langan, Lord Bective, the Hon. John Sheffington, Lieut.-Colonel Conyngham, Captain Lindsay, Captain Stuart, J. G. Winder, M. Gaga, and James Cramsie, Esqrs.

Judge—H. Walker, Esq. Slipper—Noblet.

THE PUPPY STAKES—1ST TIES.

Lord Langan's Lady Margaret beat Colonel Conyngham's Chimes.

Mr. Boyd's Lloyd beat Captain Beresford's Brag.

Mr. Watson's Mary beat Mr. Boyd's Susan.

Mr. Gardiner's Dairymaid beat Captain Stuart's Sirius.

Mr. Gardiner's Delilah beat Mr. Foley's Aileen Aroon.

Mr. Gardiner's Delilah beat Mr. Watson's Rose.

Colonel Conyngham's Ceremony beat Mr. Watson's Rose.

Captain Beresford's Battle Axe beat Mr. Haughton's Rochester.

Mr. Haughton's Rebel beat Lord Largan's Master Long.

Captain Beresford's La Belle beat Mr. Foley's Kathleen Mavourneen.

Colonel Conyngham's Clothworker beat Mr. Gaga's Glory.

Captain Stuart's Sirocco beat Mr. Gaga's Garland (L.)

Mr. M'Killop's The Doer beat Mr. Thomas' M'Crilly (L.)

2ND TIES.

Lloyd beat Lady Margaret.
Dairymaid beat Mary.
Ceremony beat Delilah.
Battle Axe beat Rebel.
La Belle beat Clothworker.

In consequence of the Sirocco and Door having each run an undecided course in the 1st ties, their 2nd tie was postponed.

THE MABEREBERNE STAKES—1ST TIES.

Mr. Cramsie's Patience beat Colonel Conyngham's Cicatrix
Mr. Watson's Fury beat Mr. Savage's Star of Ballart.
Mr. Savage's Sweeny Boy beat Captain Beresford's Miss Frantic.
Capt. Beresford's Kitty Cob beat Lord Lurgan's Master Mick.
Capt. Beresford's Bovally beat Mr. Young's Garibaldi.
Mr. Gardiner's Discord beat Col. Conyngham's Calmore.
Lord Lurgan's Master Bayley beat Mr. Sinclair's Solomon.
Mr. Gardiner's Dram Drinker beat Capt. Carleton's Faudheen Bhu.
Mr. Haughton's Rowley beat Capt. Carleton's Wink.
Mr. M'Killop's Duke—a bye.

2ND TIES.

Fury beat Patience.

ROBBERY AND ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—On Tuesday a private named Henry Haynes, servant of Captain Carr Wright, of the detachment of the 15th Hussars stationed at Cahir, suddenly disappeared from the barracks, without leaving any clue to the motive of his departure or his destination. Shortly after his flight it was discovered that he had taken a quantity of clothes and two cheques for £5 each, the property of his master. Subsequent inquiries, conducted by the local police, traced the fugitive to Tralee, where he was arrested in a lodging-house on Wednesday morning. The guilty man made a desperate resistance, and sooner than surrender himself cut his throat with a razor. He was captured with great difficulty, and sent to the hospital, where he lies in a precarious state. Hopes are entertained that he will recover.—Tipperary Examiner.

Cricket.

SECOND ELEVEN MONKSTOWN v. SECOND ELEVEN KINGSTOWN SCHOOL.

This match came off on Friday, the 28th, on the grounds of the school. The Kingstown went first to the wicket, and were disposed of by Messrs. Traill and Grahame for 47, Messrs. Lloyd W. Graves playing well for 10 and 8, respectively. The Monkstown then went in and scored 55, the principal contributors being Messrs. Grahame, Hatchell, and Traill, who joined is the score:—

KINGSTOWN.

Courtenay, b Traill	...	2
Irwin, c Smith, b Grahame	...	8
Despard, b Grahame	...	1
B Graves, b Traill	...	10
W Graves, c Hatchell, b Grahame...	...	8
Tredennick, b Traill	...	0
Briscoe, c Hallowes, b Traill	...	0
Goddard, b Grahame	...	0
Murray, c Hatchell, b Grahame	...	0
Panton, b Traill	...	0
Hopkins, not out	...	13
B 5, w 8	...	13
Total	...	47

MONKSTOWN.

C Graham, c Irwin, b Goddard ...	...	14
Hatchell, c W. Graves, b Briscoe ...	...	18
R Traill, b Tredennick	...	7
F Smith, c Goddard, b Tredennick ...	...	4
R Mayne, b Goddard	...	0
C Mayne, not out	...	7
Kennedy, b Goddard	...	0
K Hallowes, b Tredennick	...	4
R Mayne, b Goddard	...	0
Brooke, run out	...	0
E Traill, b Tredennick	...	6
B 6, l b 1	...	7
Total	...	55

SOUTH DUBLIN UNION.

The usual weekly meeting of the guardians of this union was held yesterday—

Sir ROBERT SHAW, Bart., in the chair.

There were present—Messrs. Ledwidge, Rogers, Place, Easley, Franklin, Connor, Gillespie, Kingsmill, Falkner, Drought, Draper, Fottrell, Dockrill, Lentaigne, Whelan.

STATE OF THE HOUSE.—Paupers remaining on the previous Saturday, 2,119; admitted during the week, 56; born, 2; discharged, 9; died, 3; remaining on the 30th September, 2,119, in hospital, 989.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

Mr. Place referred to a letter from a lady in Gros-venor-square, London, requesting some information relative to a poor idiotic girl, named Isabella Reilly, who had been transferred from Liverpool to Dublin some months ago by the Poor Law authorities of the first-named place. It appeared that her father had held a very respectable position in Liverpool for 20 years, but on his death, his daughter (the girl in question) was left utterly destitute, and was obliged to seek relief. He at that time stated that she was a native of Dublin, and, according to the rules of the Poor Law, was sent over to her birthplace. The poor girl died some time afterwards in this union, to which she had been admitted. Mr. Place remarked upon the great hardship of this case, and the great injustice of removing a poor idiotic girl from a locality where she had lived for years, simply because she stated she was born elsewhere. He had seen her before her death, and she was then unable give any coherent explanation as to her birthplace, or speak rationally on any other subject. The justification of the Liverpool authorities for their conduct in removing her at all was that she told them she was Irish.

Mr. Rogers, also spoke warmly on the hardship and gross injustice of such a proceeding, and several other Guardians expressed themselves to the same effect.

The board, after transacting some ordinary routine business, adjourned.

CHURCH EDUCATION SOCIETY—YOUNG MEN'S AUXILIARY.

A meeting of the committee was held at 10, Kildare-street, on Monday evening last—

Mr. MORTON in the chair.

The proceedings having been opened with prayer, and the minutes of the former meeting being read and passed,

Mr. G. H. Smith (Hon. Sec.) stated that he had lately been travelling through the North of Ireland and Scotland, and during his journey had taken every opportunity of introducing the subject of the auxiliary to the notice of young men. In Londonderry, through the kind co-operation of the Rev. W. Battersby (Union and Sec.), he had had the pleasure of attending a special meeting of the members of the Church of England Literary Institute, which had been convened on very short notice, in that occasion he (Mr. S.) had given a brief outline of the origin, progress, and objects of the auxiliary movement, which seemed to enlist the sympathy of those present in its behalf, inasmuch as a large number of collecting cards were distributed before the proceedings terminated. He had also provisionally appointed Mr. Battersby general local secretary for the diocese of Derry and Raphoe. In Scotland many opportunities had not been afforded him for introducing the subject, but he had circulated copies of the address very extensively, and thought he had succeeded in securing the services of a very efficient young gentleman in Glasgow as local secretary there. A local secretary in London would also among those to be appointed at that meeting. He had also to mention that, at a meeting held in the Sandford Young Men's Society, last month, a paper on the subject of Church Education Society was read by that friend, Mr. W. J. Rainsford, in which the chief characteristics of the National System and the Scriptural were contrasted in a very able and brief manner, and the distinctive character of the instruction afforded in the schools of the latter. A statement of the progress of the auxiliary was also given to the meeting, and the paper, which elicited the approval of those present, and gave rise to many interesting remarks relative to the recent discussions upon the Education Question. Mr. Smith then referred to communications which had been received from the Secretary of Lord Farnham, Connor, and Dromore Diocesan Society, relative to the proposed formation in connexion with the auxiliary in aid of the Diocesan Society, exclusively a course which the committee of that auxiliary wished in the strongest manner to condemn, as tending to weaken the success of the present movement, while conferring no real benefit upon the Diocesan Society. A similar proposition had been made for Tuam, Killaloe, and Clonfert, by the Rev. Mr. Brandon, but the secretaries hoped that their letter of remonstrance, sent to both gentlemen on those dioceses, would have the effect of enlisting their efforts on behalf of that auxiliary.

Mr. D. N. Moore then moved and the Rev. W. B. Rainsford, seconded the following resolution, which was passed unanimously:—"That the following gentlemen be appointed local secretaries on behalf of this auxiliary in the several ecclesiastical districts—The Rev G W Fulton, Episcopal Chapel, Upper Baggot-street; the Rev W A Battersby, Diocese of Derry and Raphoe; the Rev W J Turpin, Dundalk; Rev J Carr, Carlow; Rev G A Johnston, Belfurbet; Edward F Barton, Esq, Portarlington; A M Bennett, Esq, Glasnow; Mr Richard Smith, jun, London; Mr E A Lester, Bray; Mr John Bryan, Donoughmore, Donard, and Stratford-on-Slaney; Mr William Greenan, St Matthias' Church, Dublin; and Mr Daniel Smith, Athlone."

It was then resolved—"That the local secretaries be ex-officio members of the Auxiliary Committee."

After some general remarks, from which it appeared that the auxiliary has now 19 local secretaries, and upwards of 150 collectors, scattered throughout the country, the proceedings were concluded by prayer.

MEETING IN THE TOWN-HOUSE, TULLAMORE.

A meeting of a most interesting nature took place on Monday, in the Town-house, Tullamore. The subject was the "Great Awakening in the North of Ireland." At half-past seven the chair was taken by the Rev. E. Berry, Rector of Tullamore. Amongst those present were, the clergymen of the various Protestant denominations in the town, nearly the whole Protestant population of Tullamore, and parties from Clara and the adjacent towns. The spacious room was so crowded that it was with the utmost difficulty space could be found for those who arrived late. The service was commenced by the Rev. E. Berry, giving out a hymn. At its conclusion, he engaged in prayer, and besought the presence of the Holy Spirit.

The Rev. W. Turpin read a portion of the 2nd Corinthians, 5th chapter, and at its conclusion.

The Rev. J. Locke read the 22nd chapter of Revelations.

The Rev. W. White, from Ballymena, then arose, and commenced his discourse by remarking that the great awakening in the North was a most interesting subject, inasmuch as it was the work of a merciful and gracious God. He told of the great anxiety exhibited amongst all classes to hear the word of God expounded. Farmers forsook their land, millers their mills, and, in fact, all worldly business was suspended, so anxious were all to hear the glorious news of a crucified and loving Saviour. The conduct of the people, he said, was most remarkable. Every one seemed to feel the presence of God. Persons of most profligate manners, and enemies of God and his ministers, were converted. Roman Catholics also embraced the true faith, and publicly thanked God for His unspeakable mercies. The learned gentleman ended his discourse by appealing to those present to continue in prayer and cease not until God would send down His Holy Spirit with power, and bring peace unto the heavily laden.

The Rev. J. White next addressed the assembly. He stated that fifteen months had elapsed since the Revival, and that he rejoiced in saying that but one in twenty of those who were brought to a knowledge of their sins had gone back to follow the desires of the flesh and the devil. The work, he continued, was not confined to any particular denomination. Though he had been ministering to those that were stricken in various places, yet he could not say what sect of Protestants was favoured most. He next expressed his sorrow that there had been such extravagances—many attended with frightful contortions of the body. In some cases after the wildest fits the persons so affected fell into a trance, which lasted a considerable time. He (Mr. White) ended by returning thanks to the chairman for the opportunity afforded of addressing such a large meeting.

The Rev. E. Berry then thanked the two gentlemen, on behalf of all present, for the interesting accounts of the great Revival.

The proceedings were concluded by the pronouncing of a blessing about ten o'clock.

PRIMITIVE ENGLISH PRINTING.—Printing presses were erected in the abbeys of Westminster and St. Alban's at the close of 1473. The first work printed in this country was called "The Game and Playe of Chesse," 1474; but the first book printed in the English language as a translation, by Caxton, of "The Recuyell of the Historyes of Troye," commenced at Bruges in 1468, and finished at Cologne in 1471; at the end of the book he says, "I have practised and learned at my great charge and dispense, to ordain the said book in print," it was revised by the Duchess of Burgundy—

THE WAKEFIELD POISONING CASE.

WAKEFIELD, WEDNESDAY.—This morning the prisoners charged with the murder of Miss Adamson, by the administration of small doses of arsenic, were brought before the county magistrates at the Court-house, Wakefield. The magistrates present were Mr. E. Tew (in the chair), Mr. W. Tew, Mr. Barff, and Mr. Foljambe.

The court was crowded during the day, the greatest interest being manifested in the proceedings.

Mr. Shaw, barrister, of Wakefield, instructed by Mr. Wheelhouse, barrister, appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. Fernandes, barrister, instructed by Mr. Stringer, appeared for the defence.

On the three prisoners being placed at the bar, Mr. Shaw stated that there was no case against the two younger prisoners at present, and they were ordered to be discharged, on undertaking to appear when called upon.

Mr. Shaw then proceeded to open the case, stating that the analytical evidence proved most distinctly that the deceased was full of suspicion, and that the motives under which she had acted were plain—namely, to obtain possession of Miss Adamson's property.

Mr. Waddington was then called, and stated that after the first exhumation of the body he had made a post-mortem examination of the deceased, and analysed the contents of the stomach and viscera, but found no poison. He was present on the second exhumation by order of the Secretary of State, and saw Dr. Nunneley take away a portion of the heart, duodenum, and other portions of the body for analysation.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wheelhouse—I have my degree of M.D. from the Royal College of Physicians in Edinburgh, and am a member of the College of Surgeons in London. What I analysed the viscera I used the liquid and Reinsch's tests. I did not use Marsh's test, because I was not sure of the purity of my zinc. There were suspicious appearances on the copper. I did not boil the copper in muriatic acid before using it to test the presence of poison, but rubbed it bright and made it perfectly clean. In September, the day before the body was re-exhumed. That was on the 20th of September, and it was the second time the body had been taken up. The coffin was taken into the chapel of the cemetery, and the lid taken off. The body had been sewn up by a steel needle after the post-mortem examination. Mr. Nunneley took away from the body what he wanted for an analysis. I did not see him make the analysis, and I had no orders for interfering with any analysis that he might make. I did not reserve any portion of the viscera when Mr. Nunneley took away a portion of the region of the stomach. I had reserved a jar of a portion of the stomach which I had analysed; that jar was analysed by Mr. Nunneley, and I myself examined it. I saw no arsenic. We found traces on the metals.

By the Chairman—We found suspicious appearances on the metal. I stayed till nearly half-past 9 o'clock on Saturday night, and resumed it on Sunday. We found suspicious traces on the copper.

By Mr. Fernandes (Mr. Shaw having been called away to Halifax)—The traces on the copper might have been traces of arsenic or not.

By the Bench—Arsenic is frequently given as a medicine, and I believe is taken for the complexion. If a person had been taking arsenic for a long course of years as a cosmetic, and it were suddenly given up, the same effect would result as from an overdose. I do not know this from my own knowledge, but all the books say so.

By Mr. Wheelhouse—I believe it is a well-known fact that in the Basle, and all through the mountainous parts of Switzerland, arsenic is taken by the mountaineers to sustain their breath. Arsenic has the property of accumulating in the human body.

Mr. T. Hirst—I am a surgeon residing at Boyne-hill, Wakefield. I was called in to attend Miss Adamson by a note from Emma Stringer. I went there about seven or eight o'clock, and Emma Stringer told me that Miss Adamson had been vomiting and purging all day. I ordered remedies, and called again on the 10th, when I was told that the vomiting and purging had ceased. I prescribed chalk mixture with opium, subsequently I gave her calomel and sulphate of magnesia, and last of all calomel and opium. I never gave her arsenic in any of her medicines, nor any compound of arsenic. I saw her on Tuesday night, when she complained of great debility and tenderness of the bowels, but I did not anticipate that she would die within a few hours. I supposed that she was labouring under inflammation of the bowels. I heard of her death about half-past nine o'clock next morning, at my mid-bar. On the Wednesday afternoon I was sent for to the house, and in Emma Stringer's presence I filled up the certificate to the effect that Miss Adamson died of peritonitis. I was told by some one present that she died in Emma Stringer's arms. I understood that Miss Adamson had continued much the same up to her death; that she continued to get gradually weaker, and had no power in vomiting or purging. I understood that Miss Adamson had not been purged on the 14th of August.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wheelhouse—I knew Miss Adamson well, and attended her three months. She had a very florid complexion, and was of a very vivacious and conversational disposition. The peritoneum is a thin membrane, much thinner than goldbeater's skin, which covers the whole of the stomach and intestines, and I suppose that it was inflammation of that part, and I suppose that it was inflammation of the peritoneum.

Arsenic would be far more likely to be found in the stomach, in the œsophagus, the pylorus, and the duodenum, than it would be in the peritoneum.

I do not think that from its fragility a satisfactory analysis of the peritoneum could be made after a body had lain some time in the grave. In Miss Adamson had no constriction of the throat, and no suffusion of the eyes. She did not complain to me of constant vomiting, nor was there any vomiting of the hair. She complained of there any feeling of cold. She complained of pain, and wrapped herself in flannel. All the symptoms of the complaint of which she died were those of peritonitis. I am aware that it is generally said that ladies take arsenic as a cosmetic. I do not consider it a rather eccentric in her habits. I know that she was a hydropathist, and used cold water to excess.

Mr. Hall, superintendent of police, proved that on the 20th of September, after the death of Miss Adamson, he apprehended the prisoner, with her two sisters, at their mother's house, in the village of Dirtcar. He produced a search warrant empowering to search the house for a document purporting to be a will of Miss Adamson's, and Emma said that her mother had burnt it. The mother said, "Yes; I burnt it, that there should be no more bother about it. I burnt it in Miss Adamson's house." Emma Stringer said, "Miss Adamson said I was to have the things, and that old Mrs. Bateson can prove it." When I told the three sisters that I was come to take them up on a charge of being implicated in poisoning Miss Adamson, Emma said, "I never gave her anything but her food;" Matilda said, "I know nothing about it;" and Abigail, "I don't know what you are taking me

Foreign Intelligence.

FRANCE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, OCT. 2.—The real object of King Victor Emmanuel in to take possession of Naples, and supersede Garibaldi. When he shall have reached the Neapolitan frontiers, deputations of the people will come to claim his support, and demand immediate annexation. The commissioners appointed to examine the state of the port and town of Nice have left Toulon, on board the steamer Requin, for that place; they consist of General Marquis de la Place, General Frolsward, A.D.C. to the Emperor, and Rear-Admiral Choppart.

The Nantes Journal mentions that the sardine fishery, on the coast of Brittany, is unusually productive this year, and the greatest animation prevails among the fishermen. The little port of Douarnenesy (Finisterre), has 600 boats, with crews of six men each, engaged in it, and the scene at night, when the boats return to empty their nets by torchlight, is very curious and picturesque.

Léotard, the flying man, and wonderful gymnastic performer at the Cirque de l'Impératrice, in the Champs Elysées, has been the subject of an action, in which the director of the cirque sought to recover damages for his having violated his engagement with him, and so compel him to execute it in future. The director stated that Leotard refused to wear the uniform, and assist throughout the evening in the other performances, and that he chose to sit among the spectators, until his turn for performing came, which was contrary to his engagement. This, unfortunately for him, being the case, the president condemned him to pay 1,000f. for refusing to wear the uniform, 750f. for having seated himself among the spectators; also to resume his services at the Cirque, and wear the uniform, under pain of a penalty of 300f. for each night's refusal; likewise, not to sit again among the public, under a penalty of 750f. for each offence; and, lastly, to pay all the costs. The friends of Leotard think this a harsh judgment, and that it is very unjust to expect him to fatigue himself all the evening with the other performances, where his own are of so dangerous a nature, that it is at the risk of his life he performs them; and that the utmost calm and presence of mind are necessary to enable him to execute them in safety. The day Leotard was apprised of the commencement of this action, it affected him so much he was unable to go through his performances with his usual accuracy. The consequence was, while flying across the Cirque he missed the "trapeze," and fell from a considerable height, and, though not seriously hurt, he was considerably shaken.

There is a new club about to be opened here in one of the handsomest houses in the Rue de Rivoli, called the "Cercle des Coteaux;" everything connected with it will be carried on in a style of unexampled magnificence. The members are to consist exclusively of connoisseurs in the art of gastronomy. The committee have engaged M. Trinite, at a salary of 30,000f., as their chef de cuisine. He is a pupil of the famous Careme, and when a small boy, began his studies under him in the kitchen of George IV. The nights are becoming so cold now, it is desirable to remove the orange trees from the different public gardens to their winter quarters. In fact, one meets with nothing but preparations for winter before we have had any summer.

A correspondent, writing from Paris on Tuesday evening, says:—

"The Pope held a secret consistory on the 28th ult., and is supposed to have delivered a speech there, stating his intentions with regard to his departure from Rome. The telegraph is silent as to the substance of the Papal oration, which is looked for with great anxiety throughout the political world. In semi-official quarters it is asserted, with apparent jubilation, that General Goyon has prevailed upon the Pope to put off his departure. On the other hand, in clerical quarters, the flight of the Pontiff is regarded as imminent.

Victor Emmanuel has left Bologna on his way to Naples. His army is already quartered on the Neapolitan territory, the head-quarters being at Aquila. Accounts from Naples state that M. Bertani, Garibaldi's factotum, to whom he is indebted for the unpopularity he has lately reaped, had sent an order to the Garibaldian forces to prevent the entrance of the Piedmontese. Making every allowance for the consummate impudence of M. Bertani, it is very difficult to believe that he would despatch such an order without consulting Garibaldi, and to attack the troops of his Sovereign would be carrying his zeal for his interests a little too far. I am inclined to look upon the statement as questionable.

The Piedmontese Parliament assembles to-day. Cavour will call upon the representatives of the nation to pronounce between his policy and that of Garibaldi, and no doubt is entertained that the majority which sanctioned the sale of Nice and Savoy will again ratify the conduct of Cavour. It is, however, very doubtful whether the Sardinian Premier would be so successful if he were to disclose the consequences of the policy he is pursuing, that is, the sale of another large portion of Italian territory to France.

People are inclined to see a proof of the complicity of France with Piedmont in an article which appears in the Sardinian semi-official organ. Alluding to the despatch of the last reinforcements to the French garrison at Rome, the Opinione says:—

"The garrison of Rome has been increased in consequence of Garibaldi's declaration that the annexation was to be proclaimed from the Quirinal. The Emperor Napoleon not only wants to defend the Pope against any aggression, but also to prevent the national movement in Italy from degenerating into revolutionary convulsions. France has not intervened in Italy in order to let loose the revolution, but in order to aid in raising the edifice of Italian nationality. It is a work of reparation and not of revolution. It was not until, through the incessant action of our Government, the Italian cause was cleansed of every revolutionary element that it was received by Europe with sympathy. If now an extraneous and independent action were to substitute itself for the directing action of our Government, new complications would be inevitable. Those who suppose that Garibaldi in Naples do not heed such difficulties, but Italy must heed them, and we feel confident that Garibaldi will at last get rid of persons who, whatever may be their good intentions, cannot inspire confidence."

The Union says:—

"We have heard from certain authority that Count de Caserta was wounded on the 19th in the leg, by a splinter of a shell, and our information is further confirmed by a letter in the Gazette de Midi."

Surveys are being made for a railway to connect Brest with Cherbourg. The distance is short, and the line will be completed by September, 1861.

At the foundry of Ruelle, near Rouen, the casting of bronze guns for the navy, which had been suspended for the last four years, has been resumed.

BELGIUM.

The King of the Belgians on Sunday visited Tournay, where he was received with great enthusiasm. A grand triumphal arch was erected by the Society of Boatmen at the end of the bridge over which his Majesty passed, and, in the public square a throne was raised, on which the King took his seat to witness the filing off of all the communes, corporations, and societies of the city, and which has head all the vermin of Bertani, Mazzini, Cattaneo, De Boni, Ledru Rollin, &c., would diplomacy see without uneasiness the Two Sicilies converted into a hotbed of Republican propaganda? Garibaldi disdainfully repudiates the idea that he ever allows his mind to be swayed by the counsels of Bertani or other evil advisers. But the sober fact is, that something worse than that takes place. It so happens that Garibaldi, in his own words, "finds himself in the rank, or rather disregards the country at their own pleasure, without even taking the trouble of applying to the Dictator for his sanction to their subversive measures, or acquainting him with them. Remove the fear of the Royal troops, and leave Naples and Sicily under their present democratic despot, and you will have, for a time disorder, bankruptcy, and ruin, then the rising up of desperate factions, all the horrors of a civil war without end.

It is Sardinia alone, and the triumph of the national, constitutional principle that can save the South of Italy by uniting it to the North. Victor Emmanuel's mission is one of order and peace. The corner stone of Italy is Piedmont. You have only to cross, as I have lately done those Central Italian provinces which their good instincts has annexed to Piedmont; you have only to see their roads and railroads, their fields and vineyards, the look of the people, their feeling of security, their consciousness of freedom, to be aware of the perfect miracle operated by only a few months' renovated existence. The traffic in the Æmilian provinces which two or three years ago were divided by three almost impassable frontier lines, has become something inconceivable. The people read and work and open schools; a sanguine confidence of good, a healthful activity, a love of order, a respect for the law and its executors; all that constitutes a people worthy of self-government is rapidly developing itself. There is not a town in the Æmilia or in Tuscany from which the garrison may not at a moment's notice be removed, entrusting the preservation of public order to the National Guards. In the neighbourhood of Bologna and Roma gna, where six months ago highway robberies were frequently heard of, public security has been more firmly established.

When I was in Florence, three days ago, I saw a chosen battalion of Bersaglian National Guards entering the town. Mobilised battalions of the same militia from Turin and Milan are, as you know, doing duty at Bologna, where, by the way, the works of fortification, the entrenched camp on the plain outside the town walls, and the detached forts on the hills, are being carried on with the greatest alacrity and on the largest scale. In the same manner the citizen of the Florentine National Guard are on their way to Milan. The whole burgher population of these once so sluggish Italian cities is now made to move from place to place. They learn for the first time to know their country and countrymen; the militiamen are generally billeted upon their own towns; they are welcomed with enthusiastic cordiality; ties of friendship and brotherhood spring up among people between whom all intercourse was till so lately prevented by all the vexatious contrivances of a jealous and capricious despotism. Those mobilised guards are carefully drilled, inured to marches and military hardships; they would, at a pinch, form good soldiers even in the open field, and more efficiently behind the bastions of Alessandria, Piacenza, or Bologna. It is thus that the nation is rapidly being born again."

SWITZERLAND.

The Nouvelliste Vaudois, under date of Berne, 28th ult., says:—

"The first convoy of Swiss taken prisoners at Perugia was to arrive at Lucano last evening, and the Turin Cabinet has made arrangements for sending the others in detachments of 150 men daily. At Genoa the inquiry into the nationality of the whole of the persons captured has shown that, with the exception of 19, they are natives of Switzerland, and that every one of the officers are Swiss."

General Schmidt, late of the Papal army, has addressed the following letter, dated Altdorf, the 26th ult., to the Suysse Gazette:—

"I read in an article in your journal, in which there is a question of my stay at Turin, the following phrase:—'A passport for Switzerland was accorded to the prisoner on condition that he would not again take up arms against Italy.' I beg to observe, in correction of this statement, that I did not go as a prisoner to Turin, for, according to the terms of the capitulation at Perugia, no one of any corps, whether officer or soldier, was made a prisoner of war; and at Turin a passport of an ordinary traveller was given me, and no promise like that of which you speak was exacted."

SPAIN.

The Madrid journals of the 28th ult. give an account of a painful affair:—At about 9 o'clock in the evening of the 23rd a corporal and two soldiers of the battalion of Baza riflemen, in the camp at Torrejon de Ardoz, refused, to obey certain orders given by a sergeant, and taking their carbines, raised the cry of "Long live the Queen!" The corporal (according to some of the journals) even fired at the sergeant. Hearing of the disturbance, General Enrique O'Donnell, who commands the camp, immediately ordered out the troops to assemble in arms, and had the rioters arrested. The day after the corporal was tried by court-martial and condemned to death, and, the sentence having been confirmed by the Government, he was, on the 27th ult., shot in presence of the whole camp. The other men were severely punished. Of political news the journals give none. At Barcelona the Queen had visited a large manufactory and had, with her own hand, distributed recompenses to the more deserving workmen.

AUSTRIA.

A letter from Trieste says:—

"Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian is displaying the greatest energy in providing for the safety of our coast. As the Duke resides in Miramar, which is an hour's journey from this, a telegraphic line has been established from his residence to the port, so that he will be momentarily informed of any event. Many of the vessels of the Austrian squadron are already at Lissa. The port of Lissa is most favourably situated for naval operations, and capable of holding any sized fleet, with a narrow entrance defended by heavy batteries. Lissa commands the Dalmatian coast, the entrances into the Quarnero, and the Gulf of Trieste."

A letter from Vienna in the Allgemeine Zeitung states that great activity prevails there. No less than 800 carts are daily employed conveying materials to the fortifications and ammunition.

A letter from Berlin repeats the rumour that negociations are on foot between Austria and Bavaria for the occupation of Tyrol by Bavarian troops, in case of a war in Italy. The voyage of General Schmerling to Munich is said to be in connexion with the negociation.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

Advices from Warsaw are to the 27th ultimo. correspondent writes:—

It has been much debated lately whether the Emperor Louis Napoleon would also take part in the approaching interview with the three northern Sovereigns in our capital. But it is remarked here that the foreign journals which have shouted proper (with a deal which can be easily understood) to spread this report among the European public do not exactly agree among themselves in regard to the matter. Some papers maintain that the Emperor Napoleon has, of his own accord, through the Duc de Montebello, his ambassador at the Court of St. Petersburg, expressed a desire to be present at the interview; in order to have the opportunity of personally convincing the three Sovereigns of his pacific sentiments, and of his unalterable determination to maintain sincerely amicable relations with them. Other journals pretend that the Czar of Russia has written direct to Louis Napoleon to invite him to come and participate in the interview.

According to information which I derive from good sources, I am able to assure you that neither of these statements is correct, and that they have been chiefly circulated by certain French journals, whose sole mission would now appear to be to excite, in the name of the principles of nationality, agitation throughout the greater part of Europe.

The old ultra-Polish party, either here or in foreign countries, reading by preference the French prints which are sure adroitly to flatter its political passions, are so certain of the speedy arrival of Louis Napoleon at Warsaw that it is prepared to accord him a great popular demonstration during the stay of the three other Sovereigns in our capital. Such a demonstration, if it ever can be made, will have for its principal object the encouragement of the Emperor of the French, in his study of the question of Polish nationality, in which it is known that, after the manner of the First Napoleon, he has often occupied himself with a decided predilection.

Every man of sense in Europe knows that, under present circumstances, there is not and never can be at St. Petersburg any question of inviting Louis Napoleon to come and interest himself personally in the interview convened here, and accepted by the three Sovereigns. To put the least faith in the report spread on this subject is would be necessary completely to misunderstand the finesse, the tact, and the penetration in important affairs from which at no time the Russian Cabinet has ever departed.

To corroborate what I have said above on the attempts of the discontented to excite an agitation in Poland in favour of the principles of nationality (started in France as a means of revolutionising the people of Europe and the East against their sovereigns), I ought to mention the fact that the Polish exiles, having lately expected from Poland several foreign emissaries, have had decided reasons for subjecting to the same fate two French ladies who came from Paris to Warsaw, where they lived in grand style, and spared no expense in their frequent soirées, to which were always invited that part of the Polish nobility well known to the public and the Imperial Government for their sentiments of undying hostility which it feels towards the system established in Poland, and towards the actual state of affairs, which the nation is led to believe is insupportable and tyrannical.

SYRIA.

A letter from Beyrout, of the 21st ult., brought direct by the Americus, says:—

"For some days past rain has been falling here. The piece of news may not appear very interesting abroad, but it is really important, inasmuch as for five months we have been suffering from excessive heat. Lord Dufferin, the English Commissioner, has returned from Damascus, and he is far from satisfied at the manner in which matters have been conducted at that city, especially with the almost secret execution of the ex-governor. M. Scheffer, who has been charged to present to Abd-el-Kader, in the name of the Emperor Napoleon, the decoration of the Legion of Honour, has left for Damascus. He was accompanied by the Prussian General Groben, and by M. Legre, a photographer of the Emperor, but the latter having, after going some distance, received a kick from a horse, is been obliged to return. The Donawerth, French vessel, has come back from its excursion to the north coast, and the English ship of the line, Marlborough, Admiral Martin, and another vessel, have left for St. Jean d'Acre. The Artadne, Minerva, and Faralos, Greek vessels, have left to return home. We have received from Damascus some details of the last moments of Achmet Pasha; I heard with great calmness the delivery of the sentence condemning him to be shot; he then drew up some instructions for his family, and in dying he recommended his children to the clemency of the Sultan. The soldiers who were shot did not display the same courage; indeed it is stated that they had to be carried to the place of execution. But the most important affair of the moment is that of the Druses of the Mountain. Fuad Pacha, it is known, some time ago summoned the Druse chiefs, who are in number, to come at once to Beyrout. They replied that they were ready to send persons to represent them. He addressed to them a second summons, and allowed them five days in which whether they would obey or not. In the morning of the 25th day no Druse chief had arrived; but, as an order of the day was published requesting the soldiers not to go out to meet the Druses who might arrive, and to prevent the Christians from making any hostile demonstrations against them, it was assumed that the Government had received information that some chiefs would come. At sunset in the evening four chiefs presented themselves—Sheen Talhouk, of the village of Aley; Jousef Abdoul Melek, of Pister; Assad Esmed, of Baroun; and Assam Boumakad, of Enbel. They, however, are the least influential of the Mountain, and the least guilty. The Druses in sending such persons appeared to have ignored the summons of his Excellency (into derision). Nothing was known respecting the more important chiefs, but the general belief was that none of them would place himself in the hands of the Turkish authorities. Great surprise was accordingly expressed this morning at seeing arrive the famous chief Said Bey Djemblat, followed by three others, Selim Djemblat, son of Said Bey Djemblat, Salmadin, both of Mortars, and Assad Talhouk, of Aley. It was, it may be remembered, the men of Said Djemblat, who were at Zahle, Der-el-Kamar, Hasbeya, &c., &c. The authorities have given orders that they shall not be allowed to leave Beyrout until the return of Fuad Pacha, who is about to go to Saida. The Sentinelle, a French vessel of war, is about to embark for that port. There is no news from the coast; tranquillity prevails, but it is accompanied with disquietude. I learn that 1,500 men of the army of occupation are to leave tomorrow for Stodin and Der-el-Kamar."

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

A Detroit dispatch of the 21st says:—

"From an early hour this morning the streets in the vicinity of Russell House have been densely packed with people, all anxious to get a peep at the Prince, just before ten a.m. he made his appearance with two of his suite, also Mayor Bahl, the whole party intending to take a drive through the city before proceeding to the cars. A magnificent open barouche, drawn by four splendid white horses, had been provided. The party seated themselves in the barouche, when the immense crowd gathered around and blocked up the avenues so thickly as to make it next to impossible for his Royal Highness to proceed. Cheer after cheer was given for the Prince, and the wildest enthusiasm prevailed. The carriage was followed by immense crowds—in fact, many hanging to the wheels, whilst the side and rear walks on the route were literally blocked with people, who intercepted the Royal party at every turn. After driving through a few of the principal streets the Royal party proceeded to the depot and took their departure for Chicago, amid the firing of a Royal salute and other demonstrations of rejoicing."

It was understood that Baron Renfrew would be received at the University of Cambridge, Massachusetts, with no ostentatious display. The students will have an opportunity of paying their respects personally to the Royal visitor in one of the halls belonging to the University. The other demonstrations will be exclusively of a private character.

The Prince's movements were to leave Quebec on the 24th September for Portland.

Great preparations were being made in Boston to welcome the Prince in that city. The programme includes a grand ball at the Academy of Music, and a banquet at the Revere House.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

(FROM THE TIMES' CORRESPONDENT.)

VICTORIA, VANCOUVER'S ISLAND, AUG. 9.—From British Columbia the mining news continues to be of the most cheering character. New mining localities are being continually discovered, which afford good prospects; the population is increasing, and the public revenue sensibly augmenting. It is impossible to ascertain the "yield" of gold, from the scattered character and roving propensities of the mining population; but we have abundant evidence—that the miners are doing well. The gold-dust which arrived in Victoria in the month of July and in the first week of the present month amounted in value to 250,000 dollars. It returned but a large amount must have been carried by private hand which was not reported.

The great drawback to the development of British Columbia is its inaccessibility. There are few roads into the interior, and the few that have been opened are very bad, and remove this serious impediment to progress, the Governor is making strenuous efforts to construct new roads and to improve the old ones. All the available funds at his disposal are devoted to these objects, and it is expected that before the end of autumn several lines of road will be completed to the mining regions, which will be a great boon to the miners by cheapening the charges of transport on their provisions.

The members of the municipality of New Westminster the capital, were elected two days ago. This is the first "representative institution" of the new colony, and the citizens expect great things from its future labours.

The Government Assay-office at New Westminster, is now in operation. As Victoria is the emporium of British Columbia, I suspect that the gold which is found to have been misplaced at New Westminster. Gold should be "assayed" and run into "bars," or otherwise "converted," at the place where it is to be exchanged for merchandise, and not at a place half-way between the place of production and the place where it is to be "converted." Meanwhile, at the same time, it would have been more judicious in the Government to have ignored the capital of the gold-producing country by placing the Assay-office in another colony.

For some little time we had a strong squadron in Esquimalt harbour, presenting a sight for which I trust England will always keep herself pre-eminent. Her "wooden walls" were represented by the Ganges flagship, Admiral Sir R. Lambert Baynes, whose newly-acquired honour of a K.C.B. afforded universal satisfaction both afloat and on shore; the Topaz, the Satellite, the Termagant, the Alert, the Plumper (surveying-ship), and the two gunbo ats Grappler and Forward. The squadron is now dispersed. The Termagant is at Nanaimo coaling. The Alert is under orders to sail for Plumper Pass, on her way up, by reason of her having to go through at slow speed; but her damage is not serious, and is being repaired by the artificers of the fleet. The Albert has gone on a cruise up the coast, and will proceed as far north as Sitka, in the Russian territory. The Plumper has returned to the coast of British Columbia to survey the various coves and inlets. The Satellite has left for England, and the gunboat Grappler is stationed in Victoria harbour, as a "demonstration" against the Northern Indians encamped on the shore, and to disarm them as they arrive. The other gunboat is occasionally employed in the same service, and has just returned from Nanaimo. The service of these gunboats is most useful to the colonists, and the sending them on the station was a proper and necessary course, for which the Government deserves a grateful acknowledgment. The flag-ship and the Plumper are still here.

Uninformed people at home may think so large a squadron as we have on this coast an unnecessary display and a needless expense. I venture respectfully, but very confidently, to combat this opinion. The true our neighbours are not at this moment in a threatening aspect; but nothing tends so much to keep them on their good behaviour as the knowledge that we are prepared for them, and that "the chances are against them." I exonerate the American Government from entertaining a wish to quarrel with England; but a considerable body of the more adventurous, needy, and reckless of their countrymen are always ready to assist an unscrupulous instrument like General Harney in any enterprise which will promise fame, or gain, or notoriety, and to their ears no cry is so grateful as that of "war with the Britishers." And this danger is increased by the fact that the Government has no control over this numerous class, nor even, as evidenced in the case of General Harney, over its own military officers, when the latter happen to be rich and unprincipled, and at the same time ambitious of renown, however questionable. This is a sad and uncomplimentary commentary, but it is well that the truth should be freely told in these cases.

Another very important use we have for a squadron here is to watch the Indians for a time, now that they are breaking themselves loose from the control which their exclusive trading with the Hudson's Bay Company imposed on them.

THE ROAD MURDER.

Yesterday the adjourned examination of Elizabeth Gough, charged with the Road murder, was resumed before Sir John Awdry and the bench of magistrates. The same barristers and solicitors attended as on the previous occasions, and the court was even more crowded than ever. Scores of the principal ladies of the neighbourhood continued to exhibit a lively interest in the proceedings. The prisoner sat, as on previous days, with her face leaning on her left hand.

The first witness was

William Saville Kent, who said—I was fifteen years of age last July. I have now come home from school, near Worcester. On the 29th of June last I was at home from school for the holidays. The little boy who was murdered was my brother. I saw him last on the Friday evening, at seven o'clock. I went to bed at half-past ten. I went upstairs alone, but my sister Constance left the room with me. I slept on the second floor, and I slept in the same room the next night. I went to sleep very soon after getting into bed on Friday night. I was not disturbed during the night. I rose about seven o'clock. I did not wake during the night. Soon after I got up I heard that my little brother was missing. I searched about the house for some time, and then was sent for Urch, the police-officer, and afterwards for Mr. Parsons, surgeon, who lives at Beckington, two miles off.

Cross-examined—When I say I saw my brother, I mean my half-brother. My own mother is dead.

Daniel Oliver, examined, said—I am a jobbing gardener, living at Beckington. I occasionally worked for Mr. Kent, at Road-hill House. I went to work there on Friday, the 29th of June. I left there that day about half-past seven in the evening, with the man Holkham. I did not see him look the gate. Mr. Kent was there at that time. I left by the gate leading from the lodge to the stable yard. I went there next morning at about a quarter or ten minutes past six. The first person I saw was Holloway at the second Hothham. About half-past seven I heard of the little boy being missing. I did not see Mr. Kent driveaway. I assisted in searching round the premises. I soon after saw two men carrying something in their arms, which I afterwards ascertained to be the little boy in the blanket. It was taken to the house, and I followed. I saw the nurse there in the kitchen. I asked her about what time she saw the child last. She said about three o'clock the evening before, and that she missed it about five o'clock that morning. I asked her what she then did. She said she went to sleep again, because she thought Mrs. Kent had been and taken the child away, having heard it cry. I asked her if Mrs. Kent had ever done so before, and she said she had not. I then examined by Mr. Ribton—I don't know where the child slept at night. It was not likely it could roam about the front premises. Any one going from the gates to the closet would not have to pass the drawingroom windows.

By the Bench—When I saw the nurse she was in the kitchen garden, talking to Holkham; and then I saw her talking to the boy. I afterwards saw her in the front garden, when I was making a search. I looked to see if there were any footmarks in the yard, the house, or anywhere near. I saw some footmarks in the drawing-room, and told the nurse so. She said, "There is a policeman in the house, I had better go and tell him." This was after Mr. Kent went away to Trowbridge. I believe there was no one with the nurse at this time. I did not hear the nurse talking to any one except the boy Holloway, and the policeman. I did not see Mr. Kent anywhere about the premises at all.

John Holloway, a stupid-looking lad, about 17 years of age, said—I am a day labourer living at Beckington. On the 30th of June I was in the service of Mr. Kent at Road-hill House, as assistant to the gardener, and I also did the general rough work of the house, such as cleaning the boots and knives. I did not sleep in the house, but I went in the morning, and took my meals there. I was there at work on Friday, the 29th of June. I left about seven o'clock. Holkham and I left together. I saw Holkham lock the door. I then went home to Beckington. When I got to Road-hill House on the Saturday morning, I saw Holkham there, and I went to the stables, and asked him what he had to give me to do. He told me to go into the greenhouse and water the plants, and I did so. I was there about half past six, and I got the knife basket from its usual place, on the board in the kitchen, and carried it out into the shoe house. I took the knives out of the basket, then took up the boots, and began to clean the boots. I did not look at any of the knives particularly; there was nothing on any of them that specially attracted my attention. They were all shoes as far as I saw. I did not count them. Holkham then came in, and as he wanted me to do something else he cleaned the knives.

Cross-examined—I have been examined twice before, but have only been sworn once. Mr. Slack examined me before.

Re-examined—On the previous evening I had been using the wheelbarrow, and made some footmarks by the drawingroom window. Oliver noticed them next morning, and said it was "Some one has been in here." I then told him that they had been made by me the day before.

By Mr. Ribton—The footmarks were not in the way towards the closet.

Joshua Parsons, Esq., deposed—I am a surgeon, living at Beckington. I have attended Mr. Kent's family for the last three or four years. On Saturday, the 30th of June, Master William Kent came to my house in a great hurry, and requested me to proceed to Road at once. He told me his brother had been found with his throat cut. I got to the house about eight o'clock, and was first taken by Master William into the kitchen, and then into the laundry. Mr. Kent gave me the key of the laundry, and I went in alone. I found there on the table the body of the deceased, wrapped up in a blanket. The body was stained with blood, and with old soil from the place from which it had been taken. There were also considerable stains of blood on the blanket, but I did not consider that it had absorbed any very great quantity. The child had a nightgown and a flannel shirt on; both of these were stained with blood. I found a wound in the throat which served the whole of the structure of the neck down to the spine. The wound appeared to have been made from the left to the right. It must have been produced by a long and broad instrument, which must have had a very sharp edge. A considerable quantity of blood had flowed from the left carotid artery down to the elbow. The tongue was protruding through the lips, and the teeth were of a very dark colour and livid. That was all the examination I made at that time. At a second examination I made, before receiving an order from the coroner, I found two small wounds, one on the fore part of the fore finger, and the other I can't exactly say where. I afterwards found a wound on the left side. It had been made through the clothes and penetrated through the shirt and flannel shirt, and had penetrated more than half way through the chest, and had passed through the pericardium, wounding the diaphragm of the stomach. The wound was about an inch and a half in breadth. These were all the marks of violence I observed. At the request of the coroner I afterwards made a post mortem examination, with Mr. Stapleton, of Trowbridge. I found in the stomach very slight remains of farinaceous matter—I suppose from the previous night's supper. As far as I was able to judge, by smelling the contents of the stomach, I am of opinion that no laudanum or other narcotic drug had been administered to the deceased. I was informed that a pill had been given to the child the night before, but I saw no trace of it; it had probably passed into the bowels. I had prepared an aperient pill for the child the night before. I should have expected that it would have operated six hours after being taken, but very probably it would take eight or ten hours. There was a dark appearance round the mouth, which indicated that there had been strong pressure upon the mouth for a considerable time, and with a soft substance. The time might have been from five to ten minutes. The wound in the throat divided all the large arteries. At the time it was my impression that the throat was not cut in the place where the body was found, because I saw no jets of blood near it. If the heart was beating when the throat was cut, the blood would spirt from the arteries. It has since occurred to me that it could have been stopped by pressure on the mouth before the throat was cut. In that case life would almost have been extinct before the throat was cut. With regard to the stab in the side, I have no doubt whatever that it was done after death, because there was no retraction of the parts such as would have occurred, and no flow of blood. That wound would have required considerable force to have inflicted it. The wounds in the head were very trifling, and in my opinion were inflicted after death. When I saw the child I think it must have been dead five or six hours at the least, and I saw it at nine o'clock. Between nine and ten o'clock I was shown into the nursery by one of the maids, and saw the cot where the child was stated to have slept. The bed was covered up by the sheet and counterpane, and was perfectly smooth, and the sheet was turned down on the counterpane. The nurse was in the room, and told me she had found the clothes as I then saw them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ribton—My own impression is that the child was first suffocated by pressure on the mouth, and that after that the throat had been cut. I cannot say positively that the wounds had nothing to do with the death of the child. I can't say that the child died when the wound in the throat was inflicted. The other wounds, I believed, had nothing to do with the death, but I have, on further reflection is my own mind, come to a different conclusion. I made up the pill which I prescribed myself, and sent it by a messenger. I may have sent other medicines that night by the same messenger. I found no traces of my pill in the stomach of the child. If a narcotic had been administered by mistake it would have been absorbed into the system, if the aperient pill had been passed into the lower stomach it would not necessarily have operated before but very confidently, to combat this opinion. I am of true our neighbours are not at this moment in a threatening aspect; but nothing tends so much to keep them on their good behaviour as the knowledge that we are prepared for them, and that "the chances are against them." I exonerate the American Government from entertaining a wish to quarrel with England; but a considerable body of the more adventurous, needy, and reckless of their countrymen are always ready to assist an unscrupulous instrument like General Harney in any enterprise which will promise fame, or gain, or notoriety, and to their ears no cry is so grateful as that of "war with the Britishers." And this danger is increased by the fact that the Government has no control over this numerous class, nor even, as evidenced in the case of General Harney, over its own military officers, when the latter happen to be rich and unprincipled, and at the same time ambitious of renown, however questionable. This is a sad and uncomplimentary commentary, but it is well that the truth should be freely told in these cases.

Another very important use we have for a squadron here is to watch the Indians for a time, now that they are breaking themselves loose from the control which their exclusive trading with the Hudson's Bay Company imposed on them.

THE ROAD MURDER.

Yesterday the adjourned examination of Elizabeth Gough, charged with the Road murder, was resumed before Sir John Awdry and the bench of magistrates. The same barristers and solicitors attended as on the previous occasions, and the court was even more crowded than ever. Scores of the principal ladies of the neighbourhood continued to exhibit a lively interest in the proceedings. The prisoner sat, as on previous days, with her face leaning on her left hand.

The first witness was

William Saville Kent, who said—I was fifteen years of age last July. I have now come home from school, near Worcester. On the 29th of June last I was at home from school for the holidays. The little boy who was murdered was my brother. I saw him last on the Friday evening, at seven o'clock. I went to bed at half-past ten. I went upstairs alone, but my sister Constance left the room with me. I slept on the second floor, and I slept in the same room the next night. I went to sleep very soon after getting into bed on Friday night. I was not disturbed during the night. I rose about seven o'clock. I did not wake during the night. Soon after I got up I heard that my little brother was missing. I searched about the house for some time, and then was sent for Urch, the police-officer, and afterwards for Mr. Parsons, surgeon, who lives at Beckington, two miles off.

Cross-examined—When I say I saw my brother, I mean my half-brother. My own mother is dead.

Daniel Oliver, examined, said—I am a jobbing gardener, living at Beckington. I occasionally worked for Mr. Kent, at Road-hill House. I went to work there on Friday, the 29th of June. I left there that day about half-past seven in the evening, with the man Holkham. I did not see him look the gate. Mr. Kent was there at that time. I left by the gate leading from the lodge to the stable yard. I went there next morning at about a quarter or ten minutes past six. The first person I saw was Holloway at the second Hothham. About half-past seven I heard of the little boy being missing. I did not see Mr. Kent driveaway. I assisted in searching round the premises. I soon after saw two men carrying something in their arms, which I afterwards ascertained to be the little boy in the blanket. It was taken to the house, and I followed. I saw the nurse there in the kitchen. I asked her about what time she saw the child last. She said about three o'clock the evening before, and that she missed it about five o'clock that morning. I asked her what she then did. She said she went to sleep again, because she thought Mrs. Kent had been and taken the child away, having heard it cry. I asked her if Mrs. Kent had ever done so before, and she said she had not. I then examined by Mr. Ribton—I don't know where the child slept at night. It was not likely it could roam about the front premises. Any one going from the gates to the closet would not have to pass the drawingroom windows.

By the Bench—When I saw the nurse she was in the kitchen garden, talking to Holkham; and then I saw her talking to the boy. I afterwards saw her in the front garden, when I was making a search. I looked to see if there were any footmarks in the yard, the house, or anywhere near. I saw some footmarks in the drawing-room, and told the nurse so. She said, "There is a policeman in the house, I had better go and tell him." This was after Mr. Kent went away to Trowbridge. I believe there was no one with the nurse at this time. I did not hear the nurse talking to any one except the boy Holloway, and the policeman. I did not see Mr. Kent anywhere about the premises at all.

John Holloway, a stupid-looking lad, about 17 years of age, said—I am a day labourer living at Beckington. On the 30th of June I was in the service of Mr. Kent at Road-hill House, as assistant to the gardener, and I also did the general rough work of the house, such as cleaning the boots and knives. I did not sleep in the house, but I went in the morning, and took my meals there. I was there at work on Friday, the 29th of June. I left about seven o'clock. Holkham and I left together. I saw Holkham lock the door. I then went home to Beckington. When I got to Road-hill House on the Saturday morning, I saw Holkham there, and I went to the stables, and asked him what he had to give me to do. He told me to go into the greenhouse and water the plants, and I did so. I was there about half past six, and I got the knife basket from its usual place, on the board in the kitchen, and carried it out into the shoe house. I took the knives out of the basket, then took up the boots, and began to clean the boots. I did not look at any of the knives particularly; there was nothing on any of them that specially attracted my attention. They were all shoes as far as I saw. I did not count them. Holkham then came in, and as he wanted me to do something else he cleaned the knives.

Cross-examined—I have been examined twice before, but have only been sworn once. Mr. Slack examined me before.

Re-examined—On the previous evening I had been using the wheelbarrow, and made some footmarks by the drawingroom window. Oliver noticed them next morning, and said it was, "Some one has been in here." I then told him that they had been made by me the day before.

By Mr. Ribton—The footmarks were not in the way towards the closet.

Joshua Parsons, Esq., deposed—I am a surgeon, living at Beckington. I have attended Mr. Kent's family for the last three or four years. On Saturday, the 30th of June, Master William Kent came to my house in a great hurry, and requested me to proceed to Road at once. He told me his brother had been found with his throat cut. I got to the house about eight o'clock, and was first taken by Master William into the kitchen, and then into the laundry. Mr. Kent gave me the key of the laundry, and I went in alone. I found there on the table the body of the deceased, wrapped up in a blanket. The body was stained with blood, and with old soil from the place from which it had been taken. There were also considerable stains of blood on the blanket, but I did not consider that it had absorbed any very great quantity. The child had a nightgown and a flannel shirt on; both of these were stained with blood. I found a wound in the throat which served the whole of the structure of the neck down to the spine. The wound appeared to have been made from the left to the right. It must have been produced by a long and broad instrument, which must have had a very sharp edge. A considerable quantity of blood had flowed from the left carotid artery down to the elbow. The tongue was protruding through the lips, and the teeth were of a very dark colour and livid. That was all the examination I made at that time. At a second examination I made, before receiving an order from the coroner, I found two small wounds, one on the fore part of the fore finger, and the other I can't exactly say where. I afterwards found a wound on the left side. It had been made through the clothes and penetrated through the shirt and flannel shirt, and had passed through the pericardium, wounding the diaphragm of the stomach. The wound was about an inch and a half in breadth. These were all the marks of violence I observed. At the request of the coroner I afterwards made a post mortem examination, with Mr. Stapleton, of Trowbridge. I found in the stomach very slight remains of farinaceous matter—I suppose from the previous night's supper. As far as I was able to judge, by smelling the contents of the stomach, I am of opinion that no laudanum or other narcotic drug had been administered to the deceased. I was informed that a pill had been given to the child the night before, but I saw no trace of it; it had probably passed into the bowels. I had prepared an aperient pill for the child the night before. I should have expected that it would have operated six hours after being taken, but very probably it would take eight or ten hours. There was a dark appearance round the mouth, which indicated that there had been strong pressure upon the mouth for a considerable time, and with a soft substance. The time might have been from five to ten minutes. The wound in the throat divided all the large arteries. At the time it was my impression that the throat was not cut in the place where the body was found, because I saw no jets of blood near it. If the heart was beating when the throat was cut, the blood would spirt from the arteries. It has since occurred to me that it could have been stopped by pressure on the mouth before the throat was cut. In that case life would almost have been extinct before the throat was cut. With regard to the stab in the side, I have no doubt whatever that it was done after death, because there was no retraction of the parts such as would have occurred, and no flow of blood. That wound would have required considerable force to have inflicted it. The wounds in the head were very trifling, and in my opinion were inflicted after death. When I saw the child I think it must have been dead five or six hours at the least, and I saw it at nine o'clock. Between nine and ten o'clock I was shown into the nursery by one of the maids, and saw the cot where the child was stated to have slept. The bed was covered up by the sheet and counterpane, and was perfectly smooth, and the sheet was turned down on the counterpane. The nurse was in the room, and told me she had found the clothes as I then saw them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ribton—My own impression is that the child was first suffocated by pressure on the mouth, and that after that the throat had been cut. I cannot say positively that the wounds had nothing to do with the death of the child. I can't say that the child died when the wound in the throat was inflicted. The other wounds, I believed, had nothing to do with the death, but I have, on further reflection is my own mind